Laptop Computers Come To The Barn

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.

SCHAEFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Linda Genth is a milk technician for Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Her schedule is full and irregular, mirroring the milking patterns of the owners of the dairy herds she includes on her list of clientele.

Her job is to gather data. However, it has become much more than that. She also serves as a data processor, printer, interpreter and delivery person.

That's the expanded role of milk technician under the new Pa.DHIA computer program options. The expanded role also calls for additional education. A technician must become computer proficient.

Not that they have to write any complicated computer programs; Pa.DHIA is continuing work on that through Jim Boyer.

Boyer has written and continues to modify the current barn sheet computer program with its wide, customizing flexibility.

The goal is not to razzle-dazzle the dairyman with interesting, but useless lists, charts and graphs, according to state DHIA officials. The goal is to eliminate the need of the dairyman to adapt to the paper-work limitations and constraints of the current barn sheet.

The computerized version will allow a dairyman to determine what information is important for him to keep.

Pa.DHIA also is gearing up for Dairy Comp 305, which is a program designed so that a dairy producer can take all of the information he has stored on the barn sheet for each cow and it can be compared, graphed, charted, or listed in almost everyway.

Pork Producers' Livelihood May Depend On Improving Herd Genetics

ANDY ANDREWS

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Packers constantly remind pork producers to get their product leaner or risk being able to make a living.

Producers don't have to panic, however. There are methods they can use to improve their herds genetically and affect their profits — or losses.

For the past 27 years, a top Canadian breeder has tried the latest genetic technology and techniques to reach the standards demanded by packers and consumers. Along the way, the producer claims great inroads to success that have directly benefitted the profits of many producers from Canada who face tough competition in North American and worldwide markets.

In this region of the country, producers can realize a better return from their product by improving herd genetics. The place to start is with the "four-way cross," according to Richard Stein, owner of Thames Bend Farms Breeding Stock Company in Ontario, Canada. Stein spoke to pork producers at a special swine biotechnology meeting on Tuesday night at the Ephrata High School.

Genetic base

For producers, the most dollar return can be obtained by using a Hampshire/Duroc boar on a York/Landrace female, according to Stein. The reason? "It will give you the most free use of the genetic base," he said, which provides producers "with the heterosis that will give you higher birth weights, higher litter weights, more pigs born alive," and important carcass characteristics that packers demand.

Stein said that the most dollar return, in Thames Bend experience dealing with breeders in Canada and U.S., comes from using a Hampshire/Duroc boar. Durocs provide the best marbling and best flavor of any pork being produced today worldwide, according to the swine breeder. Hampshires provide the biggest loin eyes compared to other breeds. And the Yorkshire and Landrace breeds are important to increase litter size and survivability.

"In Canada, it's an accepted industry standard to use the York/Landrace female — an F1 female — not a 'mongrelized' animal... that has three and four and five crosses in it. Those animals cost you money," he said.

Feet Condition Reveals Cattle Health

PRESCOTT (Lebanon Co.) — The horn of the claw of the foot of cattle is a diary about the care and health of that animal, according to Dr. Paul Greenough, cattle veterinarian with the Western College of Veterinary Medicine with the University of Saskatchewan.

Like rings on a tree, it is possible to tell if an animal has been stressed and generally what kind of stress it was under by examining the horn.

Greenough was the speaker at the Penn State Extension-sponsored dairy day events this week in Lancaster and Lebanon counties. While he wasn't the only speaker, his presentation dominated the event.

For the past few years, extension agents from Lebanon and Lancaster counties has collaborated with their dairy day events, offering almost identical programs.

Lancaster held its event Tuesday at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, Lebanon on Wednesday at the Prescott Fire Hall, in Prescott.

Greenough was the featured speaker at both events, his presence coming at the request and with the sponsorship of area large animal veterinarians because of Greenough's acknowledged expertise with cattle feet and legs.

The topic is timely, according to the extension agents, because of an apparently growing incidence in cattle, especially dairy cattle, of feet and leg problems.

Using several trays of graphic slides, Greenough talked about the causes of a number of foot problems.

He explained the structure of the foot, its interior composition and the functions.

In a paper he distributed, Greenough wrote, "In recent years European veterinarians have come to realize that when lameness becomes a herd problem it is necessary to look further that at accidental causes for an explanation.

"More and more evidence is being accumulated that laminitis is

Berks 4-H Slates Second Jamboree

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent
LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks County 4-H will present another Jamboree on Saturday, March 6, from 6 to 11 p.m. here in the 4-H Community Center.

This is the second hoedown held to raise funds to build a pole barn behind the center, said Rick Kauffman, 4-H extension agent.

Along with square dancing to the music of the Blue Marsh Ramblers, there will be an auction of various items and services organized by Mike Firestone of Lebanon Valley National Bank, the auction sponsor.

Since the land was leveled last spring by the volunteer efforts of members of Local 542 of the Operating Engineers union, Kauffman and other volunteers have been working on obtaining drawings for the site.

"We have the building plans," Kauffman said. "Now we have to decide how to go after the money."

A dinner featuring beef barbecue catered by Big John will precede the festivities.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children 6 to 18. Children under 6 are free.

Tickets are available through Berks County 4-H office, (215) 378-1327, or at Big John's Restaurant on Schuylkill Avenue, Reading, and at Keystone Farm Credit in Shoemakersville.

Recently Connie Rutt spent three weeks in Poland to help set up a 4-H program. Connie used slides of the dairy farm she and her husband Ken operate to help the people understand the concept of sole proprietorship. For more about Extension's work in Poland, turn to page B2.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER
MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE
Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was slow and disappointing. Offerings were fully adequate, instances ample. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were mixed and mostly desirable. Processing schedules remained heavy despite some plants reducing operations. Less than truckload asking prices were unchanged at 49 to 61 cents; however, some plants reported discounting to stimulate demand.
In the parts complex, breast items were about adequate and in best balance. Leg items ranged fully adequate to heavy, particularly leg quarters. Wings were adequate to fully adequate.

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

WHEAT PRICES TURNED LOWER ON CONTINUED SLOWED EXPORT DEMAND AND CREDIT PROBLEMS IN RUSSIA; CORN PRICES FRACTIONALLY HIGHER ON POSSIBILITY FOR NEW RUSSIAN CREDITS AND LOWER ESTIMATE FOR BRAZILIAN CROP; BEAN PRICES MIXED. WHEAT 1 TO 7 CENTS LOWER. CORN UNCHANGED TO 1 CENT HIGHER. SORGHUM UNCHANGED TO 1 CENT HIGHER. SOYBEANS UNCHANGED TO 1 CENT LOWER. SEVERAL OFFERS ON EXPORT BOOKS BUT NO SUBSTANTIAL BUYS TO REPORT PUSHED WHEAT PRICES LOWER. RUSSIAN CREDIT PROBLEMS CONTINUED BUT IDEAS THEY MAY RECEIVE SOME CREDITS LIMITED PRICE DECLINES. CORN PRICES FIRMER ON REPORTS BRAZILIAN CROP ESTIMATE WAS LOWERED DUE TO POLLINATION PROBLEMS IN SOME AREAS. THIS STRENGTHENED PRICES BECAUSE OF TIGHT WORLD STOCKS AND THE POTENTIAL FOR ADDITIONAL RUSSIAN BUSINESS. SHORT COVERINGS ON THE BOARD SUPPORTED SOYBEAN PRICES. EVIDENCE THAT BRAZIL'S BEAN CROP, LARGER THAN THE 823 MILLION BUSHELS REPORTED, HAS ENTERED TRADE CHANNELS, BOOSTED PRICES. LACK OF NEW EXPORT INTERESTS ADDED SOME PRESSURE TO SOYBEAN PRICES.

EXPORT NEWS: THE CCC BOUGHT 6,500 TONNES WHEAT; 4,125 HARD RED WINTER WHEAT; 1,375 TONNES NORTHERN/DARK NORTHERN SPRING WHEAT AND 1,000 SOFT RED WINTER WHEAT FOR APRIL SHIPMENT.

MARCH 1-7, 1993

NATIONAL PIG DAY, MARCH 1.

TO EVERY SEASON

Every season has its weather, and every season also has its Ember Days for predicting the weather. According to old folklore, the weather on each of the three Ember Days foretells the weather for three successive months. Originally set aside by the church for fasting and prayer, the Ember Days are the Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday following the first Sunday in Lent, Whit Sunday (or Pentecost), the third Sunday in September, and the third Sunday in Advent. With Lent beginning on February 24, this season's Ember Days are March 3, 5, and 6. If the tradition is upheld, the weather on March 3 will forecast the overall weather for April, while the fifth and sixth will predict for May and June.

Fine weather isn't always best.*

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARTHWISE

Save energy and money by cooking small to moderate amounts of food in a microwave. Cooking a casserole in a microwave costs five times less than in a conventional electric oven. You can save when cooking larger items by preheating the oven for only 10 minutes, and turning off the heat 15 minutes before the required time. The oven will maintain enough heat to finish cooking, and less energy will be used.

FISH ALMONDINE

1/4 cup sliced almonds
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 pound fish fillets
1/2 teaspoon dill
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Place almonds and butter in 8-inch square micro-proof baking dish. Cook on high power for 5 minutes or until almonds are golden. Remove nuts and set aside. Put fish in dish with butter, turning to coat. Sprinkle with seasonings. Roll fillets, cover dish with wax paper, and cook on high for 4 minutes. Sprinkle almonds on fish, cover, and cook on high for 2 minutes or until fish flakes easily.

Makes 4 servings.

THE OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST:
Very cold then seasonable and snowy, some rain south; turning severely cold

SOUTHEAST:

3 Reasons Why Your Next Cage System

Should Be CHORE-TIME

Reason Number 1

A Better Feeder

You save feed, electricity and parts with Chore-Time's Ultraflo feeder.

Ask any grower who has an Ultraflo Feeding System.

Call or send for our list of 76 farms with 182 Ultraflo houses in the Northeast.

Reason Number 2

Heavier Cages

Chore-Time Cages are 11 2% Heavier, That's Over 3 1/2 Tons More Wire Per House!

(Based upon 108,000 bird house. Call or write for actual test data)

Reason Number 3

Over 14 Million Layers In Our Region

Since Chore-Time introduced the Ultraflo Feeding System in 1985, over 180 houses have been sold in our sales area which is Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, New York and New England.

Think about it. In only 7 years, 1 out of every 3 layers in our region has been switched to Chore Time with Ultraflo! Many farmers bought one Chore-Time house and after seeing the results purchased more. Some large farms have replaced all their non-Chore-Time cage systems with Chore-Time cages and Ultraflo feeders.

Can over 180 houses and 14 million layers since 1985 in the Northeast be wrong? Why not check out the facts for yourself? Call today or send for the list of all Ultraflo houses in the Northeast.

OPINION

Say It Again, Still Sounds Good

The recent second annual meeting of the Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA) illustrated again that those whose lives are centered on the raising and use of animals have a vested interest in maintaining animal conditions which are of benefit to the animal species.

This is especially true for those with a long term commitment to their business. And it is those types of organizations which represent people who have this long term commitment which have become members of PRUA.

Those people representing the entertainment industry sector which displays or use animals gave a good accounting of their businesses and presented the same standing logic that is behind most animal-based industry — striving to provide the best of care for their animal charges is maintenance of an investment and the only way to stay in business.

The logic is irrefutable: To purposefully or to negligently abuse the center of one's livelihood — animals — is operational suicide.

Besides, as in the case of the circuses, how many people can afford to buy a completely trained elephant every other month?

Those who would abuse or neglect their animals not only do not respect the animals, they would apparently not have enough self-respect or intelligence to take care of themselves.

Or else they are looking for quick gains, which is generally not a possibility in animal agriculture.

We don't mind hearing the message again, even from those not typically considered to be part of the field of agricultural production.

It must be remembered and repeated.

The only way for someone who uses animals as a means to take care of themselves is to take care of their animals.

To Compare Performance Records

To stay competitive, farmers must know how they are doing compared to other producers. Competition, new technology, genetics, nutrition, and husbandry practices are a few of the ways farmers are improving their production efficiency.

To know how you rate compared to other producers requires you to compare your records against a current records data base. Most farmers have access to at least one data base to compare their records with. This data base could be maintained by your feed company, DHIA, cooperative extension, accounting service or integrator.

It should be every farmers goal to be in the top 20 percent of the producers. If you are not in the top 20 percent, you should find out why and make the necessary corrections.

Some areas that keep farmers out of the top 20 percent include improper vaccination schedules, poor biosecurity procedures, poor ventilation, no quality control programs for feed, lack of time spent with animals, and equipment not properly adjusted.

If you are not constantly improving your production performance, you will soon find yourself slipping in the rankings. Competition will constantly be weeding out the bottom farmers.

By keeping good records and comparing your performance against a good data base, you will always know where you stand with your competition and when you need to make changes in your operation in order to stay competitive. It is easier to make the changes when you are still in the top 25 percent than when you are in the bottom 10 percent. Talk with your feed supplier, service person, or banker and find out how to compare your records with other farmers.

To Pick Up Forage Fact Sheets

During the past year, the Penn State Agronomy Department has published numerous fact sheets that address a wide range of information on forage crops. The fact sheets are available at cooperative extension offices in Pennsylvania at no cost.

Eleven of the sheets cover information on the following forage crop species: ryegrass, birdsfoot trefoil, red clover, white clover, summer annual grasses, timothy, ter, 6 p.m.-8:30 p.m.

Lehigh County Tractor Safety Course, Ag Center, March 4-April 8 (Thursdays).

orchardgrass, reed canarygrass, smooth brome grass, tall fescue and warm season grasses. Other topics which are covered include cutting management for alfalfa, red clover and birdsfoot trefoil, large round bale silage, forage quality perspectives, harvesting and utilizing silage and three on forage soil fertility management.

These should be very helpful as farmers evaluate alternative crops, especially as nutrient management plans are being developed. Grasses could be a key player in helping farmers to meet nutrient management guidelines.

To Early Wean Pigs

According to Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, pork producers who wean pigs early may increase the number of pigs weaned per sow per year and may allow for heavier pigs at 8 weeks of age.

A successful weaning program depends on choosing an age at weaning that suits the facilities, nutritional program, and management skills of the producer.

Weaning between two and four weeks of age has now become the normal practice with most herds weaning at 24 days of age. For the best herds, a target of 70 pound pigs at 60 days of age is attainable.

Hughes offers the following tips for improved early weaning:

- Feed a well balanced, high energy, palatable diet.
- Keep feed fresh and clean.
- Temperature at pig level should be 85 degrees F for pigs 8 to 12 pounds and 80 degrees for pigs 12 to 17 pounds.
- Provide clean, dry, disinfected pens.
- Allow one water nipple for every 6 to 8 pigs.
- Use an all-in, all-out system.
- Provide a draft-free environment and use overlays on slatted floors.
- Number of pigs per pen should be 16 or less.
- Adjust pen mates within a weight range of 2 to 3 pounds.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "There are times when silence has the loudest voice."

GODLESS CHATTER February 28, 1993

Background Scripture:

2 Timothy 2:14 through 3:9; Titus 2.

Devotional Reading:

Titus 2.

This may sound strange coming from a preacher, but I usually avoid arguing about either religion or politics. In my experience, "discussions" of religion or politics generally turn into arguments. Mostly, when people cross the line from "discussion" into "argument," they become angry. When people become angry there is little that can be said that will be reasonably received.

It is said of St. Francis of Assisi that one day he asked a certain brothermonk to accompany him to the village to preach. The brothermonk was puzzled, however, in that throughout their whole course through the village St. Francis maintained silence. When they returned, the brothermonk said, "I thought we were going to preach in the village!" "Ah, we did," said St. Francis. "We walked in peace and brotherhood and people saw our example. It was not necessary to say something."

LEARN SILENCE FIRST

Sometimes I wish preachers and other religious enthusiasts would learn silence before they begin to speak. Christian life is too often filled to the brim with words, words, words. Words that hurt, condemn, attack, confuse, and testify, not to the goodness of God, but the self-celebrated human intellect. We are never nearly so clever or wise as we think and whenever we think we are particularly brilliant, that is usually when we are actually the most stupid.

I realize that's a strong statement, but no stronger than what Paul says in 2 Timothy: "...charge them before the Lord to avoid disputing about words, which does no good, but only ruins the hearers" (2:14). And: "Avoid such godless chatter, for it will lead people into more and more ungodliness, and their talk will eat its way like gangrene" (2:16,17).

And: "Have nothing to do with stupid, senseless controversies: you know that they breed quarrels" (2:23).

We've all heard far too much talk like that. Nothing can hurt the cause of Christ more than "godless chatter." The problem is that we seldom hear our own words as "godless." In fact, we may think that by filling our conversation with the word "God," we are doing well. But when conversation celebrates our own understanding, no matter how many times we invoke God's name, it is "godless." It serves our own ego, not God.

SILENCE IN THE CHURCH!

Theologian Soren Kierkegaard once wrote: "Order the parsons to be silent on Sundays. What is there left? The essential things remain: their lives... Would you then get the impression by watching them, that it was Christianity they were preaching?" On another occasion, he said: "Would-be theologians...must be on their guard lest by beginning too soon to preach they rather chatter themselves into Christianity than live themselves into it and find themselves at home there."

Ah, but there are times when we must speak out, you say, when there are words that must be said. How can we know the fine line between "godless chatter" and witnessing for Christ? Paul says: "the Lord's servant must not be quarrelsome but kindly to everyone, correcting his opponents with gentleness" (2:24,25).

If, in your speaking for God you can remain humble, acknowledging that you do not have all the answers, that you speak, not as one who is superior because of what you know--or think you know--and can keep from becoming angry, self-righteous or judgmental, you can avoid "godless chatter," "senseless controversies," and "disputing about words."

Dekalb Buys White Corn Germplasm

DEKALB, Ill. — Dekalb Plant Genetics has expanded its specialty-use product line through the acquisition of all of the white corn germplasm from NobleBear Seed Company, Overland Park, Kan. NobleBear is a leading marketer of hybrid seed for white, food-grade corn.

The agreement also includes a small supply of four commercial hybrids that will be available to Dekalb customers in 1993. The purchase does not include buying the NobleBear trademark, name, yellow corn hybrids, or any other physical assets. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

"This acquisition is intended to strengthen the food corn product line of our U.S. seed business," said Tom Rice, Dekalb's president. "It allows us to offer our dealers and customers a wider selection of Dekalb food corn hybrids of varying maturities. It also provides Dekalb corn breeders with hybrids and inbreds that should enrich our white corn breeding program for years to come."

"The white corn market currently accounts for less than 1 percent of seed corn acreage in the United States," Rice said. "However, it has experienced good growth in recent years, primarily due to the popularity of tacos and other Mexican foods."

282 days & nights

THAT'S RIGHT, it will be a thousand days and a thousand nights from the day you breed Old Bess until her heifer is in production. That's a long time and a lot of hard work. Then to your dismay you discover you have a complete dud. What went wrong? The day Old Bess was in heat you were anxious to get to baling hay. So you kicked her out with the bull you had used all winter to breed the heifers. You saved some time and lost a lot of money. You can avoid those hasty and costly decisions in the future by enrolling your herd in the Genetic Management Service Program.

Bess has heifer calf

436 days & nights

At your convenience a trained evaluator will go over each cow in your herd and determine her strong and weak points. With the aid of a computer which can sort through thousands of bits of information rapidly a recommendation will be made as to the best bull to be used on each cow.

Ask your ABS Representative about this planned breeding program now.

Farm Preservation Funds To Use Or Lose

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approximately $590,000 available to purchase conservation easements on qualified county farms.

Roughly 13 percent of these funds have been appropriated by the Lebanon County Commissioners while the remainder comes from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Interested landowners should make an appointment with Charles Wertz at the Lebanon County Conservation District (272-3377) to learn further details of the application process.

Time is of the essence as funds not utilized by Lebanon County landowners by the end of 1993 will be reallocated to those counties spending their shares.

Round one of the county's program closes on April 30, at which time it is likely the county board will make offers to do appraisals for qualifying landowners.

Potential applicants can also apply to the program after April 30 in either of two remaining enrollment rounds.

To date, four Lebanon County farms totaling approximately 430 acres have been preserved. Two more farms totaling about 228 acres are likely to be preserved pending their approval by the state.

Candidates must be in an approved Agricultural Security Area in their municipality and meet several other criteria to qualify for the program.

HYTEST BRAND CORN DOES IT AGAIN... ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON!

NCGA CHAMPIONS

HYTEST Brand Corn has done it again in 1991! Two National Championships and 4 State Winners in the National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

Mr. James C. Justice II of Beckley, West Virginia was named the Class A, Non-Irrigated Division National Champion with a yield of 259.0697 Bushels per Acre and the No-Till Non-Irrigated Division National Champion with a yield of 251.7041 Bushels per Acre. These yields were also the Virginia State Winners. HYTEST Brand HT650A was used for both wins.

Mr. Jim Russin of Sharon, Connecticut was named the Class A, Non Irrigated Division State Champion with a Yield of 178.8533 Bushels per Acre using HYTEST Brand HT650A.

Mr. Joe Matejik of Mechanicsville, Pennsylvania was named the Class A, Non Irrigated Division State Champion with a Yield of 200.5841 Bushels per Acre using HYTEST Brand HT736.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE

HYTEST Brand Corn has had 16 State Winners and 3 National Champions out of the east in the past 2 years! This is a record of performance many larger National Brands can't match!

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

The same careful breeding, testing, and selection process that went into producing these Champion Hybrids goes into all of our varieties. Each variety, under the proper conditions, has the potential to be a Champion

HYBRID SELECTION

Your HYTEST Brand Sales Representatives and Regional Agronomists are trained to help you select the best variety for your particular growing conditions. They will follow up with technical assistance right through harvest time.

TOP SELECTIONS FOR 1993

Each season, after review of the many test plots, demonstration plots, and numerous grower's fields, Joe Butwin, Manager - Farm Seed at Beachley-Hardy develops his own special "favorites" list to share with all of us. Joe's choices this season are:

NORTH

HTX7228-SX - 95 DAY HT7728-SX - 116 DAY
HT318-SX - 100 DAY HTX7748-SX - 118 DAY

YOUR CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

Championships are nice, but what's really important is producing the highest grain and forage yields possible in the most cost effective manner. HYTEST Brand Hybrid Corn Seed will allow you to do just that. Proven consistently season after season!

NEWS FLASH

Beachley-Hardy Seed Company of Shiremanstown, PA has recently purchased the assets of HYTEST SEEDS, INC. HYTEST Brand Seed Products will continue to be available through your previous HYTEST Dealer and Beachley-Hardy Seed Company.

GET CONTROL OF TRIAZINE-RESISTANT WEEDS WITH PROWL®

Triazine-resistant pigweed and lambsquarters can pose a severe threat to your corn crop. That's why we recommend you use PROWL® herbicide. PROWL gives you effective control of these resistant weeds, plus velvetleaf, fall panicum, giant foxtail and 19 other grasses and broadleaves. Do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

See us today. We have the products and the service to help your farming operation.

Accurate & Precise In Reduced-Till Fields, Too.

White 6100 planters have gained a well deserved reputation for planting with incredibly accurate spacing at precisely the right depth.

Our short 18" aerodynamically designed seed drop and independently acting walking beam gauge wheels see to it. And our low pressure, air metering system and edge drop seed disc singulates seeds to avoid doubles or skips.

Best of all, the row splitter and wide array of attachments allow you to plant in nearly any field condition—no-till, mulch till, or finely worked—with row widths ranging from 15" to 40".

New 6600 Planter two-bar design features interplant row units

Herd Joins Test Program

DeFOREST, Wis. — David S. and Robin D. Dum of Mt. Joy, Pennsylvania have signed on as a contract herd in the American Breeders Service (ABS) progeny test (PT) program.

In this program, the Dum Farm is to use semen from young dairy bulls being tested by ABS. The ABS PT program is unique because it allows test herds to select which young bulls they would like to sample, while also allowing them the option to have ABS send them semen from a non-specific young sire.

The goal in either case is to have each progeny tested young sire receive a highly reliable sire summary at the conclusion of the testing period.

ABS selects PT herds based on management practices, including accurate record-keeping programs and animal identification program. The management of the PT herd affects the quality of the data ABS receives. ABS relies on the contract herds for accurate animal identification and official DHIA records.

After receiving this data, the Dum Farm is to receive benefit payments from ABS for each PT calf born, and again for each PT-sired daughter included on the sire's second USDA summary.

Producers interested in more information on the ABS PT program should contact their local ABS representative.

Thanks and Congratulations...

Large Turnout For Dauphin, Lebanon Crops Day

Paul Craig, Dauphin County extension agent, demonstrates the spray width of various boom nozzels.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — A larger than expected number of crop growers turned out Monday for a crops day seminar at the Lebanon County Extension office, despite poor driving conditions from snowfall which had most schools on at least a two-hour delay and some closed.

Sponsored jointly by the extension services in Lebanon and Dauphin counties, the annual crops day covered a wide variety of topics and also contained two separate classes on pesticide handling and applications which qualified attendees for several pesticide applicator update training credits.

The event was chaired by Kenneth Winebark, Lebanon agent.

Included in the seminar were discussions by Penn State University and Extension experts on residue management and conservation compliance by Joel Myers; a look at the future of corn production, and crop planning strategies by Greg Roth; an ASCS program update by Jennifer Minnich, Lebanon ASCS director; sprayer calibration instruction and a spray table demonstration by Paul Craig; crop planning strategies for nutrient management by Doug Beegle; and a farmer panel on making land allocation decisions.

Myers said that, in managing residues on fields, take into account the varying field topography and work with USDA's Soil Conservation Service personnel to develop a conservation plan.

He said there are six basic things to checklist: understand the entire plan; make sure that activities fall on schedule in order to stay on track with the plan; request plan revisions from SCS; direct any questions to SCS; and report any changes in the plan to SCS; and document any verbal communications to SCS by writing down the date, time, etc.

Calling it, "One of the most interesting seasons," Greg Roth recapped the condition of the corn crop over the past year.

He talked about the mold and mycotoxin problems to an extent, but he also said that there were other problems which occurred in record proportions, such as "beer can" ears.

Although the exact cause of some problems can only be guessed, he said that some of the things encountered pointed to frost damages and the effects, hybrids with pushed maturities, reactions to late rye residue toxins, and corn borers.

According to Roth, with the "beer can" ears, the corn plant is apparently healthy and fully grown and the ears appear well developed until the husk is pulled back to reveal a stunted cob and in many cases few kernels because of poor pollination.

He said the characteristic was reported in record numbers all across the nation, not just Pennsylvania. He said it may be attributed to damaged caused by late frost

From the left, Daryl Alger and Richard Kreider are recognized for their corn production in the 5-acre corn contest, each man getting yields in excess of 200 bushels per acre.

BELMONT was developed to withstand the diseases, insects, and weather that we have here in the Northeast. But it does more than just survive our conditions. It performs very well. In four years of testing at Hershey, PA, BELMONT outyielded such varieties as WL320, Legend, Oneida VR and Edge. At Landisville, PA, BELMONT is number one, outyielding such varieties as WL322HQ, Magnum III, Aggressor and Majestic. When high performance is important. When second best won't do, ask your seed dealer for BELMONT.

Using the four-way cross gives producers "free use of the genetic base," said Stein.

Litter evaluations

He used an example of a herd, including 400 sows, and details of litter evaluations performed on it. Of an average litter, the farrowing rate was 88 percent, litter size per year was about 22.4, pigs weaned per mated female stood at 23.3, and the feed conversion was 2.73. "Most of the operations in the U.S. have a field conversion well over 3," said Stein.

The margin over feed costs on that particular herd was $286,000, without building, taxes, and management costs.

"We have engineered animals that have a very fast turnaround," he said. His breeding company deals with days to slaughter of under 150, with a 24-day farrowing time. The target is 24 pigs per sow per year.

Stein said that his company has produced the top four herd sires in Canada. "It becomes a very small world as far as genetics is concerned," he said. Progeny is bred with backfat taken off—and backfat is a genetic trait that is readily passed on (about 50 percent heritability), along with loin eye, percent of ham, and percent of lean cuts. Meat color, marbling, and other factors are heritable.

The Canadian system has allowed the swine breeders to reduce backfat and growth rate considerably. In 1973, when they began serious strides into reducing backfat, their standard was .18 mm (or .72 inch)—even now, in the U.S., the standard is above that.

"You can make very fast strides in producing the carcass traits and upgrading your animals to meet the standards of your packers today," he said.

Percent heritable

Reproductive traits are only about 10-15 percent heritable, but are important for litter survivability and increasing the amount per litter per herd.

Stein said intense genetic evaluations continue in Canada on all the genetic lines. Accordingly, what they found was that there will come a time, perhaps five years hence, when "intacts" (boars instead of barrows) will be sold at market. "The industry will probably move in that direction," said Stein.

"Intacts can be marketed without any (meat) taint to the consumer," he said. Pork surveys conducted in Australia and New Zealand proved there were no complaints from taint on the meat products from boars sold.

Also, placing boars on market provides a four percent advantage on meat cutout over a barrow, according to the Thames Bend owner.

Color tests

Other breeds studied include the Yorkshire (loin eye and other tests) and carcass comparison of cuts, including color structure tests important to many packers.

Producers can realize a cost benefit of up to $30 on an average hog by using the proper genetics and proper feeding. "If you feed good genetics, they respond," he said, pointing out the importance of feeding digestible lysine.

"To maximize genetics, it takes a number of combinations: management, nutrition, housing, and health," he said. The breeder said that each genetic line requires a certain level of nutrition, and each requires it differently.

"If you want to maximize genetics, you must also feed that genetics," he said. "If you only feed it average, you will only get average results from your genetics. You can make very excellent genetics look very average."

Health concern

Health is the number one concern in Canada, according to Stein. "Without good health, the rest of it, you're throwing it away," he said.

It's also important to give growing pigs the proper square footage.

"We in Canada have realized that through research, a pig must have 25 pounds per square foot," said Stein.

"Every square foot will only produce 25 pounds of pork per year." If over that limit by overcrowding, "you will not maximize your growth potential... and it will cost you dollars."

Real-time machine

To measure what types of hogs are producing the quality meat, Thames Bend makes use of a $30,000 real-time ultrasound machine, which has given the company the advantage of not having to cut their best animals. By using the technology of ultrasound, the breeders can examine critical packer concerns, such as shoulder depth of backfat, loin depth of backfat, loin eyes, muscling in ham, and others.

Also, Thames Bend is DNA testing to completely remove the porcine stress gene, which produces pale, watery pork, from all genetic lines. The stress gene costs the industry millions of dollars a year, he said.

Stein said his company has been living with constant changes in Canada for the past 15 to 20 years. He said that U.S. producers have a 20 percent advantage over cost of production compared to Canada. Housing, labor, and taxes are more severe on Canadian producers, which has forced them to look hard into their genetics and management.

"For us to survive in this North American market, we've had to do a number of things differently," said Stein. Of two aspects they've looked at, one is producing a healthy pig that will grow quickly and very efficiently. The other is to produce the lean type of carcass that the consumer and packer are looking for.

"We as breeders can breed to whatever the packers' standards are," said Stein. "It may take a generation or two or three to do it, but we can meet their standards if they tell us what their standards are — is it a seven-inch loin eye at 240 pounds? An eight-inch loin eye at 240 pounds?"

"It is a two-way street going between our packers, ourselves, and the consumers to know exactly what the consuming population wants. We can produce it."

Monitor herd health

Dr. Robert Graybill, swine practitioner in Lancaster County, spoke about the importance of monitoring and managing overall swine health and to keep "the herd has clean as we can," he said.

He said that, increasingly, the FDA is getting tough on producers using chemicals to treat disease. While some vaccines have proven effective to preventing disease, producers should try to manage the herd to prevent herd health problems.

Tom Moyer, Hatfield Packing representative, also spoke to the producers about the changes taking place to put more emphasis on carcass weights and price quotations. Changes effective on the first of this month will further the company's commitment to carcass pricing:

- 161-200 pound desired carcass weight range, or a live weight range of 220-270 pounds. Carcasses less than 161 pounds are not eligible for lean cut percent premiums.

- One standard yield of 73.5 for all hogs.

- Carcass pricing will be stressed by showing only carcass weight ranges rather than estimated live weights, quoting sort penalties on a carcass basis, and showing a base carcass price.

- Average live price will no longer be included on the payment sheets.

Moyer told the producers that "change is difficult, even for me," he said. "But the fact is, we have to be willing to change to meet what the consumer is going to buy."

"It's not what we want but what the consumer wants."

shock when the corn plant is in the four- to eight-leaf stage. It also seems to be more prevalent in areas with a high soil pH and fertility. There may be some potential for a hybrid resistance.

The rye residue toxicity problem showed stunted growth from a reaction to toxins release from the decomposition of mature rye residues till under.

Another signal would be yellowing of the edges of leaves which signifies a lack of potash. This is because of toxin-stunted root development and the inability to get potash in adequate amounts to the rest of the plant.

He said a key factor into avoiding problems from double cropping with rye is to avoid planting corn into fall-harvested rye.

To prevent the problem, take the rye in earlier for ryeage, burn it down, or disc it under before it reaches a height of 14 to 16 inches.

He said that on test plots at Penn State, there was a 10-bushel yield difference between corn planted after mature rye residue and corn planted without rye.

Corn borers may continue to be a problem in continuous corn fields. In 1991, there was a potential for three generations of corn borers in fields located in south eastern Pennsylvania. During 1992, the state had a high population of corn borers.

However management strategies should be more toward alternating crops in fields as a means to protect the corn crop from the borer.

The Midwest has a similar problem with corn borers, but they don't have the number of varieties of borers as there are in the East. Because of that, farmers can efficiently conduct pesticide applications.

He said that here in the East, the several different varieties of corn borer emerge at different times making it difficult to control with pesticide.

In the Midwest, the fewer varieties of corn borer emerge closer together and producers can target controls.

On the bright side, Roth said that some hybrid corn varieties are promising good resistance to borer.

Frost damage is not necessarily a permanent problem, Roth said. If the plant is still in the early leaf stage — not yet to the six- to eight-leaf stage — let it go for several days to give it a chance to come back.

He said that while the leaves may brown down to the ground, the growth tip in younger plants is below ground and may not have been killed.

After several days, to determine whether or not frost has killed the growth center, split the plant down the middle to the growing point. If it is brown, smelly, or beginning to decompose, it was frost killed.

In other directions, Roth said the near and far future holds promise of change. The main direction of change is toward more environmentally friendly corn production, as far as nutrient management, pesticide and herbicide applications.

Also, since the larger farms of the Midwest can produce grain corn at a low cost, Roth said he sees increasing pressure on local growers who have to deal with more variables and smaller areas of land to be competitive.

While not specifically providing answers, he said it will become increasingly important to analyze the local situation and consider any advantages over the large growers.

One direction producers may want to look is at the specialty corns which may be coming on soon, such as those hybrids which may be more nutritionally complete and more economical for local livestock producers, compared to feeding No.2 yellow corn shipped in from the Midwest.

Roth also said that coming along, though "very hush, hush" in the industry, is a corn rootworm resistant, high yield hybrid. "I think, in another five years or so, we may see it," Roth said.

He said he also looks forward to a hybrid which is resistant to grey leaf spot, on which researchers are working. Grey leaf spot is a problem with no-till production, he said.

Biotechnology is on the way also with corn. He said that the seed companies are experiencing a resurgence in interest in some varieties such as high-oil-yielding corn. According to Roth, two companies are joining forces to hybridize a high-oil corn with a high-yield corn.

Also coming along are varieties for stress tolerance and disease resistance. However, he said they will probably emerge in the Midwest and "trickle" here.

Developing corn varieties with specific starch compositions also may have promise, Roth said, adding that he based that on conversations with several seed company representatives.

According to Roth, there are subtle differences in the ability of corn starches to be converted to alcohol. He said that because of those differences, a certain hybrid may be able to provide an edge in efficiency in manufacture of alcohol for energy.

What is needed is better data bases on how hybrids perform on different conditions, he said. Currently the quality of data obtained is too variable.

He said that in the future of corn growing, tracked farm vehicles may become the field machine of choice because of lower incidence of soil compaction. While controlled traffic strategies, similar to ridge-till, may work to reduce compaction, its applicability locally is difficult to foresee because of the irregular field shapes.

Roth said that, in the future, satellite mapping of fields for drought stresses may become available. He said he can foresee work on implements and cultivators designed for high residue farming.

And, in addition to the coming improvements in nutrient management, nitrogen testing, composting materials (not for soil value, but for handling) and by-product uses (newspaper for carbon to trap nitrogen), Roth said he sees work to be done in weed control and in biocontrols.

For weed control, he said the direction seems to be going to lower rates of chemicals with field specific recommendations and applications based on need.

He said that the agricultural community seems to have learned its lesson with developing toxin-resistance in plants as a result of what happened with the uses of triazine.

Roth said his "crystal balling" also incorporates the increased use of advanced engineering technologies.

He said that perhaps video technology could be meshed with sensor technology to come up with a system of driving down the field and having a program respond to positive video identification of a weed by applying herbicide.

He said that work is already being done on a knife-like sensor which can detect and map the variability of nitrogen in the field just by being run through the ground like a chisel.

Already here is the use of radar guns to help determine rate of spray applications.

Through the existing Global Positioning System (GPS), a satellite dish could be mounted on the top of a tractor and, perhaps in the future, a producer could drive down the field, mapping many aspects of the field, such as moisture, nutrient values, slope, etc.

Overall, Roth said that management can be expected to increase in efficiency simply because of having good information by which to make decisions.

"I see a lot of potential for a lot of technology on the shelf that's not being adapted."

On another subject, Dr. Doug Beegle said that most farmers currently have a nutrient management plan, though it may be in their head. He said that most people who may be affected by a proposed nutrient management law would simply have to write down their current practices.

He said that currently most producers consider a number of aspects about spreading manure and applying nutrients which follow what is being asked for proper management.

According to Beegle, most producers already consider, for each field, the source of the nutrients, the application rate, the time of application, the method of incorporation, additional fertilizer applications, and any special field considerations, such as proximity to waterways.

"Everyone managing manure is already making those decisions,"

Beegle said. "For a lot of you it may mean just writing it down."

However, Beegle said that producers should also look hard at the quantity of manure, its nutrient value, and any additional sources.

To determine quantity, he said those with a manure pit can have a good idea of what is available, but they should understand that what is in the pit isn't all the manure being produced on the farm.

According to Beegle, one cow produces about 20 tons of manure per year.

Using that figure (which is included in a table in the Penn State University Agronomy Guide, available through extension offices), he showed calculations which projected a model for a 100-cow dairy operation.

According to Beegle, the herd would produce 1,945 tons of manure per year, 1,225 tons of manure is collected, 720 tons is uncollected. The uncollected manure is that which is deposited by cows on pasture or dry lots (Which are normally located close to waterways, and which should be of concern to livestock producers, he said.).

He based his figures on 185-days of 24-hour confinement (manure being captured), and 180-days of 6-hour-per-day confinement.

He said that while the manure produced is 1,945 tons, only 1,225 tons can be spread on crop fields.

Next is to determine the nutrient quality of the manure, which can also be done very roughly through the use of a table within the Agronomy Guide, but which must be done through a manure analysis to approach any kind of reliability.

He said that values for nutrients for different manures vary.

Also, within each manure type, there is additional variance in the chemical form each nutrient. This variance in chemical form means a variance in availability of a specific nutrient to a specific crop.

For example, nitrogen can be in manure in several forms — urea, protein, etc. — and each form has different solubility and volatility. It all means that the plant can use some forms of nitrogen in manure immediately, and some forms throughout the season.

Some forms may not be available to a plant for much longer periods, depending on environmental conditions.

All this means that there is a variance between the manure test readings and how much of that a particular crop can use.

According to Beegle, potash can be treated on a pound-per-pound basis compared to manure analysis. Phosphorus can also be treated that way, except when used as a starter.

Nitrogen is more volatile. Beegle said that 50 percent of the test amount of nitrogen is available if it is spread and incorporated the same day.

If seven days go by before incorporation, the loss of crop-available nitrogen from cow manure diminishes rapidly.

Because of the different forms of nutrients and because they can bind with other soil components or become otherwise physically trapped, there is the residual effect to all nutrients.

Beegle said that if a field gets manure spread on it frequently — about eight out of 10 years — the amount of nitrogen buildup in the soil is roughly estimated to be 25 percent of what has been applied annually.

Field information is also integral to good nutrient management, Beegle said.

He recommended having recorded a crop plan, crop history, crop rotation, soil limitations (such as slopes, etc.), and the soil nutrient base level.

From this, he suggested prioritizing fields for manure applications by categories: by crop, going from those requiring nitrogen to those not requiring nitrogen; by nitrogen requirements, going from high levels to low levels (according to soil tests); by phosphorus and potash tests, going from those with low amounts to high amounts (it's much easier to build up high amounts of these nutrients); and by soil limitations, going from those with slopes or soil drainage which won't allow easy runoff losses.

He said to also consider neighbors when prioritizing fields for manure applications.

"Look at the whole farm and put priorities of fields to get the best return and the least amount of potential problems," he said.

By doing this, he said that high priority fields for receiving manure may not necessarily be those closest to the barn, which happens sometimes with time and labor constraints.

He said a simple formula to determine the maximum application rate is to take the recommended amount of nutrient per acre for crop and divide that by the amount available in the manure.

As an example, Beegle said that, if the recommendation is for 100 pounds per acre and the manure provides 5 pounds per ton, then the application rate of manure would be for 20 tons per acre.

"It gives a ballpark amount, and is perhaps a different rate on different fields."

Being able to manage this way — which has been suggested for some years as a way to cut down on overhead by reducing purchases of unneeded commercial fertilizer — also requires a producer's ability to calibrate his manure spread rate, he said.

ABC Honors Members

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Atlantic Breeders Cooperative experienced a very favorable business year in 1992, despite economic pressures facing dairymen, according to the organization's annual report presented at it many annual district meetings held through its membership area.

District 3 held its meeting Feb. 10 at Palm Schwenkleder Church. District 1 Director Donald Bair, addressed the meeting and reported on the operations of the cooperative.

Chuck Allen, management representative, reported that national sales were up, but foreign sales were down for 1992. He also reported on operations at Lancaster.

During the meeting two area dairymen were honored for having high producing herds this past year. Receiving certificates of merit were Galen Leatherman, whose herd recorded an average 23,225 pounds of milk, 856 pounds of fat, 734 pounds of protein and is 66.7 percent ABC sired; and Harold and Tom Haldeman, whose herd produced an average 19,954 pounds of milk, 742 pounds of fat, and 655 pounds of protein, and is 65.7 percent ABC sired.

At the District 5 meeting, held Feb. 15 at Solanco Fairgrounds, District 5 Director James Kreider addressed membership and ABC management representative Alan Bair talked about his responsibilities as member-public relations director.

Bair said that it is very important to have effective communications between the cooperative administration and its members. Members must feel part of the team.

He also talked about the cooperative education program and the need to appreciate member needs.

During the meeting, 16 dairymen were honored for high producing herds.

Md. Holstein Association Supports 4-H Youth With Auction

COLLEGE PARK, MD. — Four Maryland youth will be representing the United States in international competition at the Royal Highland Show in Edinburgh, Scotland on June 25. The youth will be attending the competition as a result of winning the National 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Contest in Madison, Wis. in September 1992.

A special activity to raise funds will be a Fun Auction sponsored by the Maryland Holstein Association. It will be held in conjunction with the Maryland Holstein Annual Banquet on Friday evening, March 12, at the Comfort Inn in Frostburg, Md. The Fun Auction will begin immediately following the banquet.

Team members are Kristi Geary, Gaithersburg; Mark Iager, Fulton; Chip Savage, Knoxville; and Marie Speak, Taneytown. Many activities are being planned to help financially support the trip that will include travel to agricultural facilities and sights in England, Holland, Belgium, Germany and France.

Many exciting and unique items already have been promised to the Fun Auction to help raise money. Some of the items include:

- A "Lone Star" quilt made by Amish women from Oakland, Md.
- Two nights in the honeymoon suite at the Royal Oaks Motel, Deep Creek Lake.
- Many valuable milk bottles, including a half-pint University of Maryland milk bottle.
- A handmade hickory rocker.
- A hand-painted milk can (scene of your choice).
- Famous Garrett County maple syrup.
- Plus many other crafts and gifts.

Also, semen, embryos, and some animals will be consigned to sales with the proceeds going to support the youth.

Help from as many people as possible is greatly encouraged to support these outstanding youth. If you would like to donate some items to the Fun Auction, please contact one of the following people: Martha Bender, Accident, Md. — (301) 746-8559; Ken Holland, Pocomoke, Md. — (410) 957-1399; Judy Iager, Fulton, Md. — (301) 725-6751; Lee Majeskie, College Park, Md. — (301) 405-1406; Eva Martin, Smithsburg, Md. — (301) 824-2106; Bonnie Remsberg, Middletown, Md. — (301) 371-5498; Cindee Savage, Knoxville, Md. — (301)

695-5265; Nona Schwartzbeck, Union Bridge, Md. — (410) 775-2845; or Colleen Smith, Monkton, Md. — (410) 692-6724.

If you would like to purchase an item but will be unable to attend the event, please contact one of the people listed above.

To make a financial contribution to support the youth on the international trip, make checks payable to "Maryland 4-H Foundation" and send to: Dr. Lee Majeskie, Department of Animal Sciences, University of Maryland, College Park, MD. 20742-2311.

For more information about some of the fundraising activities or to financially support the team, contact Lee Majeskie at (301) 405-1406.

Farm Credit Hires V.P.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Ken Lewis has been hired as a vice president of credit by Keystone Farm Credit, ACA, with headquarters here. The announcement was made by David Sorensen, senior vice president of credit operations.

Lewis, who was born in France while his father was serving in the United States Armed Forces as a medic, was raised in Lancaster County. His family moved to a farm when he was a sophomore at Hempfield High School, Landisville. They fed steers and hogs, and young Lewis became involved in 4-H. Lewis earned a degree in agricultural economics from Cornell University in 1978. Summers during college he worked with Hershey Equipment Co., installing poultry equipment.

Joining Farm Credit in the Baltimore district's field training program in June 1978, Lewis spent approximately three years working with the York Farm Credit Association in York and Adams counties. He returned to the Baltimore bank in March 1981 as a senior credit analyst and remained at the Bank until he joined Keystone late last year. His position when he left the bank was assistant vice president of credit.

For me, the test of any alfalfa is how many pounds of nutrients per acre it produces.

I'm as interested as the next guy in what researchers are doing to improve the alfalfa varieties on the market today. But sometimes, I think seed companies forget that more leaves or better disease resistance by themselves don't produce more milk. The bottom line is pounds of nutrients per acre.

That's why I plant Multi-plier alfalfa from Jacques. Sure it's a multileaf and has good winter-hardiness and terrific disease resistance. But all that says to me is that Multi-plier has the potential to produce more pounds of nutrients per acre on my farm.

I look at my corn silage hybrids the same way. So I also plant a lot of 7970 from Jacques. Yes, it's big and leafy and yes, it makes a lot of grain and fits my operation. But my analysis only measures total digestible nutrients and that's what I'm looking for.

I'm open to new alfalfa varieties and silage corn hybrids, but only if they'll deliver more pounds of nutrients per acre than my Jacques' Multi-plier and 7970.

Maryland Promotes Breakfast Sausage

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Gov. William Schaefer recently announced that Parks Sausage of Baltimore is introducing a Maryland Pride Breakfast Roll Sausage as part of an effort to convince Marylanders to buy Maryland products.

"Parks Sausage is one of our more than 1,500 outstanding 'Maryland With Pride' businesses," said Gov. Schaefer. "They produce an excellent line of meat products and this new Maryland Pride Breakfast Roll Sausage conforms to their high standards of taste and quality."

Schaefer began the "Maryland With Pride" program in 1987 to encourage businesses to use the "Pride" logo on their products to recognize the contributions Maryland businesses and workers make to the state's economy.

The program creates awareness among Maryland businesses and consumers of the wide variety of products and services available from Maryland companies. It is a cooperative venture of the Maryland Departments of Agriculture and Economic and Employment Development.

"From apple growers in western Maryland to Parks Sausage in Baltimore, participation in the 'Maryland With Pride' program shows the extraordinary diversity of our state's economy," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker.

Parks Sausage plans to initiate a statewide "Maryland With Pride" advertising effort to make consumers aware of their new breakfast sausage. It will be available in mild and spicy flavors.

"Marylanders consume more roll sausage per capita than any other state in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast region, so why not buy something made right in our own back yard?" said Schaefer. "I am pleased that Parks will be able to use our 'Maryland With Pride' identification to promote this new product line."

Businesses interested in learning more about the "Maryland With Pride" program may contact Desiree Mundell, Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, telephone (410) 841-5770.

Farmers Find Profits In Alfalfa

LINCOLN, Neb. — Alfalfa, an often overlooked cash crop, is earning top billing on many farms thanks to profitability, reduced equipment costs, and soil conservation.

Marty Loving, a Pawnee Rock, Kan., farmer and rancher has raised alfalfa for years to feed his 125 head herd of registered Short-horns. Two years ago, Loving turned to alfalfa as a cash crop to escape a severe stalk rot problem in a 130-acre pivot circle.

Loving, who farms about 1,550 acres in central Kansas, said raising cash crop alfalfa has been an education.

"It's a lot different than raising it for my own herd," Loving said. "You have to cut it on time. And every 28 to 30 days it needs to be cut."

Loving raises NC+ Verta+ alfalfa.

"It seems to be a good variety for the sandy soils we have," he said. "It really comes back fast after each cutting and the feed quality analysis have been good."

Alfalfa establishment for Loving is a critical process. He seeds alfalfa in the spring at a rate of 15 to 20 pounds per acre. He doesn't sow a nurse crop, and only waters the alfalfa through the growing season.

Loving's crop consultant handles the fertilizer program and applies about 45 to 50 pounds of phosphate per acre and 60 pounds of potash per acre.

NC+ Dealer Jon Youngquist of Beaver City, Neb., drops everything, including corn and sorghum harvest, to cut his 800 acres of NC+ JADE alfalfa.

"You have to treat alfalfa like a crop," Youngquist said. "Farmers that treat alfalfa like a second class crop don't get what they could out of it."

Youngquist said he prefers alfalfa because it is profitable.

"Raising alfalfa is hard work, but it has consistently yielded more money than any other crop I've tried," he said.

He normally gets four cuttings, although some years he nets five. He said he plants NC+ JADE because it is high yielding and comes back quick after a cutting.

"JADE has done great for me," Youngquist said.

West Point, Neb. farmer Paul Meyer is a veteran at raising alfalfa as a cash crop. Meyer got his start in the business in 1968 after finishing military service.

"Back then, the only way I could farm was to put up hay," Meyer said. "The only land available for renting was hay land, there wasn't any row cropland to rent."

Meyer still rents most of his hay land.

"I only produce about 120 or 130 acres of alfalfa myself," he said. "The rest I buy either standing or in the window. I take the hay and make it into dairy quality hay."

Loving, Youngquist, and Meyer all cut alfalfa in the one-tenth bloom stage and bale hay in the 18 to 20 percent moisture range. Each bales at night to ensure that the hay holds its leaves.

Meyer said a key component in selling alfalfa as a cash crop is indoor storage.

"Anyone considering raising alfalfa as a cash crop must have a shed to store it in," Meyer said.

Meyer markets his hay through the Nebraska Alfalfa Marketing Association and serves as executive secretary of the group.

Youngquist, who also belongs to the Nebraska Alfalfa Marketing Association, said marketing may be one reason more farmers aren't in the hay business. Many farmers who are not involved in state organizations have to set up their own network of customers who are primarily dairy and horse people. Youngquist said most hay is shipped to the eastern part of the nation from New York to Florida.

Loving said that his first year of marketing cash alfalfa was tough because he didn't have any contacts. But this year he is working with a dairy consultant. And that's helping to sell his hay.

"After the first year of cash alfalfa, I knew I had to do something different," Loving said, adding that this year his square bales are selling for about $85 to $90 per ton.

All three said they enjoy raising alfalfa, especially when big rains hit and they know that their soil is in the field, not the grader ditch.

"Alfalfa is a natural for fitting into conservation plans," Meyer said. "It's a soil holder and builder. It's a great erosion control tool."

ADC District 5 To Meet

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's District 5 will hold its annual dinner meeting March 4 at 7 p.m. at the Bird-in-Hand Restaurant.

James S. Fraher, Atlantic's economist, is to be the guest speaker. Fraher will report on cooperative business and dairy industry issues.

During the meeting, officers, delegates and alternate delegates will be elected for the coming year. In addition, a Quality Premium Award will be presented to David S. Hess of Lancaster. The award is given to members who qualified for Atlantic's quality milk bonus all 12 months of the 1992 fiscal year.

Also, 25-year membership awards will be presented to John L. and Anna S. Beiler of Strasburg, Melvin L. and Carol J. Beiler of Gordonville, Dennis Kolb of Lancaster, Earl E. and Charlotte L. Huber of Conestoga, John W. and Phoebe J. Good of Lancaster, Glenn W. and Mildred S. Good of Lancaster, and P. Wilmer and Susan Breckbill of Willow Street.

Other 25-year members include Erbie S. and Fannie Stoltzfus of Ronks, David and Joe Garber of Lancaster, Glenn P. Book of Lancaster, Darrel and Glenda Martin of Lancaster, Leroy S. and Melvin L. Esh of Gordonville, and Mose G. and Sylvia S. Riehl of Gordonville.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents more than 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Most highly promoted alfalfa varieties report resistance to 5 or 6 major alfalfa pests. Not bad. But new CimarronVR has resistance to 15 of the major diseases, insects and nematodes that attack alfalfa. And according to scientists, 11 of these pests are likely to be present on your farm. So why settle for second best. If you are concerned about loss of yield, quality and stand, why not go with the winner?*

Alternative Farming Practices May Bring Success

C.J. HOUGHTALING

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.)

— As throngs of farmers recently mingled with exhibitors or listened to workshop speakers on successful farming practices, a message kept surfacing: No two farms are alike.

What works for one farmer may not work for his neighbor down the road.

The farmers were attending a dairy day, sponsored by the Penn State University Cooperative Extension and area dairy businesses at the Tioga County Fair Grounds. There dairy experts offered a variety of options to consider to make farms more profitable.

"The big ticket items are feed, labor, and debt," said Steve Ford, a farm management specialist from PSU. During his presentation on "What Profitable Dairy Farms Look Like," he distributed a comparison report on the top 25 percent of farms in Pennsylvania in 1991 for financial performance to the average farm.

The report broke down the business of farming into such categories as the vet/medicine expense per cow, purchased feed per cow, crop acres per cow and machinery operating expense per acre.

"But lowering the cost (of an expense) may not be the same thing as increasing profits," explained Ford, "because, maybe the farmer puts more money into crop production to produce better quality forage to reduce the feed costs, that way he makes more money in the long run.

"I don't think farmers should cut costs in feeding or vet care, and if they are already locked into some kind of debt structure that's hard to change."

Ford stressed that the most important thing was for the farmer to first figure out where he stood. No farmer should make any changes at all in their management practices until they know what needs to be changed.

Duane Pysher, an USDA Soil Conservation Service specialist, presented a program on "Pasture Management, How To Make It All Work."

Pysher explained the intensive grazing practice, stressing, too, that how the practice is applied should depend not only on the farmer and what he feels would work best for him, but also on the location of the farm and the weather conditions.

Dr. Mark Roberts demonstrates the parts of an udder, one of four udders he brought to the Tioga County Dairy Day.

An intensive grazing operation divides the total pasture area into separate paddocks whereby cows are transferred from paddock to paddock according to grass growth for ideal grazing conditions.

This practice utilizes pasture space more efficiently, forcing cows to be less discriminating in their grazing because they are in a limited area where grasses are at an optimum nutrient level, while giving exhausted paddocks a chance to rejuvenate.

Pysher explained that tailoring the program to fit a farmer's needs can be done three ways. The farmer can change the amount of land available, change the number of livestock per paddock, or change the number of days a paddock is used.

Recognizing stress factors, and taking steps to avoid them are important in a successful intensive grazing operation, according to Pysher.

"Stress factors are anything we can induce, lack of feed, lack of water. Basically, the greatest stress factor in grazing would be heat. If we can overcome that by providing shade at the appropriate time, or by giving them fresh feed or water, they will forget all about that external stress factor."

Shade, however, should not be provided in the form of a tree in the pasture, as Pysher explained. "Cows will seek shade at times when they don't need it. The shade tree becomes the social meeting grounds, and, rather than resting in the middle of the paddock where there's grazing, they will gather underneath the shade tree which prevents the good utilization of the forage, as well as provides problem sites for parasites and other diseases."

Pysher recommended either providing shade in a portable form or in a wood lot which can be open and closed as needed.

The frequency of changing a paddock depends on the situation. Used as a method to reduce the heat factor, paddocks may be changed every half day. On the other hand, it could be as long as three or four days, depending on the growing state of the grasses.

Whatever the frequency, Pysher said, "It is important to have good quality, clean water. Ideally, water should be accessible in every paddock."

In using an intensive grazing program, like any farm management practice, the success rate will also vary from farmer to farmer.

As Pysher explained, an economic study was done on 15 farms converting from a total storage feed system to an intensive grazing program along the Seneca Trail in New York State. The savings realized by these farms varied from 26 cents to $3.21 per hundred weight of milk produced.

"Some of them increased production, some of them decreased production," said Pysher. "But the bottom line was, there were more dollars in the checkbook at the end of the month from that type of system."

Just as farmers should individualize their management practices to realize the full potential of the farm's profitability, so should they individualize their cows' feeding program, particularly the dry cows.

A "Dry Cow Nutrition" program presented by Jud Heinrichs, PSU dairy specialist, provided tips on how to recognize the changes in a dry cow so that its feeding program can be changed accordingly.

To determine the body condition, look at the tail head and loin area on the cow. "The tail head area changes drastically from a dry cow to a lactating cow," said Heinrichs.

Body condition is determined on a scale between 1 and 5, with 1 being too thin and 5 being too fat. Ideally, a dry cow should be between 3 and 4. Since the body condition changes over her periods of lactations, the farmer needs to be aware of these changes.

A cow losing weight is hard to get bred. If the cows is too thin at the start of her lactation, the farmer only has 60 days to bring her body weight back up or he will lose money. Once the cow fresh-

Bank Seminar Focuses On Progress Through Change

LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)

— Convinced that the only thing certain about the future is change, Hamilton Bank, during an agri-educational seminar, tackled the economical, technological, and emotional issues that change in the '90s entails.

While the seminar focused on the positive aspects of change, Dr. George Conneman, associate dean of Cornell University, said that he is not suggesting that one should adopt every change because not everything works out.

With witty anecdotes, he described how many quotes from people in the past seem ridiculous now that megachanges have taking place in society.

He emphasized the perspective gained by reviewing the trends of agriculture within the past 20 years and the technologies that will shape the future of agriculture.

While change often brings crisis to people, Conneman said that crisis signifies both danger and opportunity that one needs to look at with vision to survive.

"Smart farming works a lot like smart baseball," he said. "Always be ready for a curve; keep your eye on the ball; cover all bases; back up the play, and be a team player," he said.

H. Louis Moore talked about the good and bad points in the economy that sets the stage for change in agriculture.

When you look at both factors, the positive is greater than the negative factors and that will help agriculture as well as the rest of the economy, Moore said.

His analysis of production shows that grain inventories will result in cheap feed for '93. "That's good for users, but bad for those who sell," he said.

For survival in self-help marketing, Moore encouraged farmers to look for niche marketing.

"It doesn't have to make sense. It's what the consumer perceives of truth," said Moore. To describe how ridiculous a consumer's concept may prove, Moore told of the woman who pays more for brown eggs than white because she thinks they look better in the refrigerator.

"Celebrate change," said Jolene Brown, a professional speaker and farmer from Iowa. She said that the alternative to celebrating change is to have ulcers, live in fear, and be a victim of circumstances.

Brown said that many people in agriculture have the disease of perfectionism and want everything to be done exactly right according plan and often refuse to adjust to change.

According to demographics, she said, that out of 30 people chosen at random, four will emerge as leaders, about 10 will follow the leaders, and the others will complain about life being unfair and be victims of circumstances.

She stressed the need for farmers to listen to the marketplace and adapt to the changes necessary. Victims of circumstances blame the economy, the weather, the consumer... she said. They depend on others such as Extension agents, banks, and the government to fix it.

"We live in the worst of times or the best of times, depending on what you are looking for," she said.

To rekindle self worth, Brown said, "You must separate your self worth from your net worth."

Self worth can be enhanced by drawing on eternal values, caring for health, and taking care of the mind, she said.

While it's scary taking risks, she said that a quote from J. Paul Getty reminds people that not taking risks can result in disaster. Getty said, "In times of rapid change, experience might be the worst enemy."

For the first time at the annual seminar, the audience had the opportunity to ask questions during a panel composed of Moore, Brown, Conneman, and David Kohl, professor at Virginia Tech.

In the discussion, the panel agreed that they believe that the family farm will survive.

"I believe the family can do better than a corporate farm," Conneman said.

Moore said the family farm in the next 25 years will probably be more business oriented, larger, more specialized, but still a family farm.

Panel members also said that dairy farms with 65-head can make it financially in the '90s if they pay attention to details, keep debt moderate, and are modest in spending money.

"Some farmers with 60 head make more money than those with 125," Moore said. Some with a 17,000 rolling herd average also make more money than those with 20,000 pounds.

"Some farmers suffer with 'bigness on the brain,'" Conneman said.

As with any other business, farmers must adjust to change and not be scared of financial analysis.

Donald Cooper, president of Hamilton Bank, told the 350 persons who attended that economists forecast that the prime rate will likely stay at its current level of six percent for the first half of the year, and may even go lower.

From a mega perspective, Kohl said that most farmers are in better shape financially this year than last. Fifty percent of farms are debt-free and others have reduced their debt ratio.

While an average family of 3.8 needs $36,000 to $40,000 annual income, Kohl said many families are reducing medical insurance because of skyrocketing prices.

He reminded the audience that farming in the second most hazardous occupation "so don't dump insurance."

The seminar was the 12th annual one that Hamilton held for the agricultural community in an effort to better serve the needs of the bank's customers.

"We care and want to continue

to be leaders in agriculture," Darvin Boyd, Hamilton agri-finance director said.

Family Spirit Awards At Poultry Progress Day

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Poultry Family Spirit Award has been established to recognize Lancaster County families that have owned a poultry business for at least two generations. These businesses may be farms or marketing, feed, poultry supplies, or service businesses.

These multigenerational businesses will be recognized at the 1993 Lancaster County Poultry Progress Day on March 4 at the Lancaster County Farm and Home Center.

Lancaster County is one of this country's top poultry producing areas. This is the result of many poultry operations being in the same family for several generations.

Cattlemen's Meeting Set

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — The annual meeting of the N.W. Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (NWPCA) will be held at the Mercer County Extension Center, on Monday, March 1.

There will be a braised steak dinner starting at 7 p.m. The cost for members of the NWPCA will be $2.50 a person. The association is picking up part of the cost for the dinner and one other (spouse, herdsman, friend or family member). Cost for non-members will be $4 a person. (Ivomec is picking up part of the cost of the dinner for all individuals.)

The program for the evening will be presented by Shawn McKee, representative for MSD Ag-Vet Division of Merck & Co., Inc., Grove City. McKee's discussion will deal with "Parasite Control Programs and Products," sponsored by Ivomec.

Hope to see you on the 1st.

Alternative Farming Practices May Bring Success

ens, she will rely on her fat reserves for energy.

Ideally, Heinrichs said, the weight of a cow should fluctuate, with it dropping at the start of lactation until it reaches its lowest point (of not less than 2, but preferably just below 3), then begin rising again for the breeding period, with the last third of the lactation period used for putting on fat.

All the while, the cow's feed should be changing.

Heinrichs said a high protein diet is good, but a high grain diet is not because it creates a lot of acid which can disturb the digestive tract. Forages such as corn silage, haylage and hay should be 1.6 to 1.8 pounds per hundred pounds of body weight.

While the diet can consist of 50 to 60 percent corn silage, grain should be limited to 3 to 5 pounds. It is important that right before freshening, the corn silage and legumes should be limited and the grain increased to .5 percent of the body weight.

As Heinrichs stressed, by spending time catering to the changes and feeding needs of dry cows, the farmer should experience a greater success rate in breeding and a higher production in milk.

Other programs at the county's Dairy Day included small group discussions in the afternoon on "What is Low SCC Worth?" by area Farm Management Agent Lehan Power and DHIA area rep. Diane McIlwain; "Where Are The Dollars-Pasture Budgets," with Ford; "Maximizing Dry Matter Intake," with Heinrichs; and a hands-on demonstration recognizing mastitis and dissecting cow udders with Dr. Mark Roberts of the Pine City Veterinary Clinic.

PSU also held a Forage Satellite Program in conjunction with the dairy day at the fairgrounds where farmers learned about forage establishment and pest control, complete with pesticide credits earned by those who watched the program broadcast via satellite.

Pa.DHIA, in cooperation with the Penn State Extension programs in many areas, is currently holding educational meetings across the state for dairymen and technicians who wish to learn more about the new tools being offered.

The purpose for having something that flexible is so the farmer can understand the information without needing an interpreter, and also so that he can get detailed, pertinent information and estimates for herd management within minutes, rather than days.

That also means the role of the milk technician is to change slightly.

Genth and the others will not be required to learn beyond the stage of a competent user of the programs written for a laptop computer.

However, because of her computer-learning background, Genth is one of the technicians advanced enough to be comfortable taking the laptop computer into the barn.

At this time, Genth and the other advanced technicians are doing double-work — they enter the milk sampling and other herd management data into the portable computer in addition to using a pencil to mark the same figures and notes into the large-page barn sheets carried in a file book.

Both sets of information are sent to Pa.DHIA headquarters in State College. The computer-entered data is transferred via telephone hookup.

The differences are great, in terms of time delay.

The actual paper entries are mailed from the technician, at least 24-hours later, and because of the system, up to three days after the data is gathered.

Genth said that once the paper barn sheet gets to State College, there are other delays. There are two auditors who check over all the barn sheets for errors. That's thousands of data for two people.

And then the process involves more people preparing the data to be sent back to the farmer-client.

In the meantime, the dairyman could use the information for making all kinds of herd management decisions, such as breeding, health management, etc.

The time difference is substantial for Genth's clients.

It comes down to the fact that processing all the handwritten data is a tedious and time-consuming, whereas sending information from one computer to the other requires few steps and little time.

The speed of entering data into the main computer reflects a quickening not only on the total turn-around, but in the ability of the farmer to see the progress of his herd within the same week, rather than find out later.

The potential efficiency and long-term cost savings from using computers in the barn are apparent.

If it all sounds too good to be true, it currently is for most, but only because the process of implementing all the advantages of the program requires training and educating people to using the new farm tools.

Pa.DHIA is doing the duplication of effort on barn sheets to verify accuracy with the computer-telephone-computer information transfer system.

Widespread implementation of the computer system also depends on the quickness with which technicians become computer efficient, how fast dairymen learn of the advantages to using the information, and how well the two communicate to put together a customized program.

For those somewhat familiar with computer programs, the barn sheet and Dairy Comp 305 are based on windows, rather than straight menu selection.

Although a mouse, which is a

While Linda Genth is one of the Pa.DHIA testers using the laptop computer to enter testing data on a barn sheet, she also continues to enter data by pencil as a backup until Pa.DHIA management is certain of the accuracy of the laptop computer.

device for moving a computer screen cursor unidirectionally, could conceivably be used with the programs, that isn't apparently the direction being taken.

There are critics of the laptops in the barn.

Once complaint is that keyboard functions are not apparent — that is, certain keys or combinations thereof are used to perform a task which the keyboard already has keys to perform.

The reason for that is because of the levels of use within the program. Major movements within a program are accomplished more straightforward on the keyboard, while work performed within a document requires the adapted keyboard codes.

For example, within a document, moving the cursor in a direction requires the uses of two keys.

Another potential problem is working with dust-sensitive equipment in a dusty environment. The laptops that technicians currently use employ plastic dust covers over the keyboard.

Technicians are also discovering that a lightweight, portable, wheeled laptop and milk-test sample holder would be a blessing. Genth currently uses barrels, or other objects, found in the barn where she is testing.

(Given the ingenuity of the farming community, however, it is not expected to take long before someone comes up with a design that technicians would welcome; something that, in addition to the previous characteristics, could also withstand frequent washing, would not present any hard-to-clean areas, and which could be made to be compact and easily stored in a car trunk or back seat area.)

However, Pa.DHIA officials have mounted a recent intensive effort to compile a book explaining the functions of the management programs the association offers, and they have put together a heavy schedule for touring the state to hold educational meetings within the districts.

The use of the laptop computer system takes a little mental adjustment from other layman computer uses, according to Genth, but it isn't difficult to grasp.

The Dairy Comp 305, for example, offers 14 reports for dairymen.

Data can be entered, recalled and reworked within the 14 reports for an almost limitless customizing of information for the dairyman.

The reports are Individual Cow Cards, Test Day Production, Due To Calve, Due To Dry Off, Open Cows, Heifers, a Veterinarian's list (for cows under care), bred 90 days, production by name, ME production, high ME cows, a reproductive summary list, a list of those with new infections, and breeding summaries.

The amount of data each technician can have accessible within the small laptops is tremendous. All pertinent information, other than milk test, on each cow in each herd serviced by the technician is immediately available.

Information which requires more exact milk component data still requires a delay, until testing can be performed and the information is entered.

Genth said she is happy with the direction the job of technician is taking, because of the challenges it poses, and because of the increased usefulness of the services provided.

Pat Toretta, Pa.DHIA ARIS administrator, shows a farmer attending a computer programming seminar some of the characteristics of the laptop computer and the Dairy Comp 305 program options.

Mid East UDIA Sets Meetings

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Mid East United Dairy Industry Association will host six regional meetings for dairy farmers to present the 1993 advertising and marketing programs funded by the 10-cent dairy promotion investment.

All dairy farmers in the Federal Milk Marketing Areas 33 and 36 — Ohio, western Pennsylvania, and parts of West Virginia and northern Kentucky — are invited, as well as anyone else interested in dairy promotion.

Mid East UDIA is one of 20 regional promotion associations and affiliated Dairy Council units of the United Dairy Industry Association that receives 10 cents of the 15-cent dairy promotion investment. The remaining 5 cents funds the National Dairy board for complementary programming.

"Unified dairy promotion will be stronger than ever in 1993," said Mid East UDIA General Manager Scott Higgins.

UDIA member organizations, NDB, and the West Coast promotion groups in California, Oregon and Washington are to contribute

$7 million toward a unified national fluid milk advertising strategy — "Milk, It Does a Body Good."

Higgins said that the campaign's single budget and single focused theme will result in greater consumer impact.

"Dairy farmers will receive 25 percent more advertising for their dollar when all of the organizations combine their money to purchase network advertising."

Mid East UDIA is also planning numerous campaigns for cheese, butter and ice cream with promotion partners such as the National Dairy Board, Nabisco, Hershey Foods and the Beef Industry Council.

Nutrition education programs also play a vital role in increasing dairy product sales by emphasizing their value as part of a healthy diet for people of all ages.

"Mid East UDIA has set a priority of targeting schools with our nutrition education messages," Higgins said. "By adding a school breakfast program that serves milk, school cafeterias have great potential to increase Class I sales by as much as 360 million pounds annually."

The meetings are scheduled for Tuesday, March 2, Holiday Inn, Wapakoneta, Ohio; Wednesday, March 3, Fisher Auditorium (OARDC), Wooster, Ohio; Thursday, March 4, Days Inn, Meadville, Ohio; Monday, March 8, Grave Creek Mound State Park, Moundsville, W.Va.; and Tuesday, March 9, Ramada Inn, Somerset, Pa.

Registration will begin at 11 a.m. and the meetings will be from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. A lunch buffet will be served. There is no charge to attend the luncheon meetings.

A special breakfast meeting will be held Saturday, April 17, from 8:30 - 9 a.m., in conjunction with the Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. There will be a $2 breakfast donation that will benefit the Dairy Spectacular.

Reservations for all of the meetings should be made at least seven days prior to the meeting by calling Mid East UDIA toll free, 1-800-292-6455.

Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Welcome More Than 500 To Open House

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — More than 500 Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. customers were on hand to see the latest equipment, gather information about transfer of farm real estate, and receive credits toward pesticide recertification at their annual Customer Appreciation Day and Open House on Tuesday.

According to Don Hoover, sales manager, those in attendance gave "rave reviews" to the open house. He said, "People were impressed with what they learned. Many said it was the most effective and well-received seminar ever offered for our customers."

The Open House featured a special seminar which focused on the transfer of farm real estate. Kenneth H. Howard and James W. Appel, of Appel and Yost Attorneys, detailed what is involved in farm transfers and how farmers can obtain the maximum benefit.

Because of increasing costs of farms and farmland, it is not uncommon for parents who are ready to retire from farming to want to simply give farms to their children, according to Appel and Yost. But farmers should consider the following regulations that apply to transfer:

- You may give $10,000 per year to as many people as you like, and there is no gift tax.

- You may give an unlimited amount at any time to your spouse.

- There is a limit of $600,000 that a single individual (or $1.2 million, under a unified credit amount, husband and wife) can give to other people in their life or at death, free of gift and estate tax. Amounts more than that are normally taxed.

- Those who want to give more than $10,000 in the aggregate in a year must file a gift tax return, even if no tax is due. You must file the return so that the IRS knows how much of your unified credit has been used up. There are certain deadlines and other guidelines, such as market appraisals, that must be followed.

- If the person to whom you give the farm sells it, they must pay a capital gains tax, which can be complicated.

Other matters covered include bargain sales, installment sale plus forgiveness of debt, sale lease back, family partnership, farm corporation, and gift with retained life interest.

When considering death transfers, the farmer is faced with a variety of options, depending on whether the estate is jointly owned. There are an array of different options available to the farmer to transfer the property at death, including gift under simple will, purchase option under will, special use valuation, and deferral of estate tax. Other arrangements available include the complicated like-kind exchanges, outlined in the proceedings.

To order a copy of the outline of the proceedings, contact Appel and Yost, 33 N. Duke St., Lancaster, PA 17602, (717) 394-0521 or 123 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522, (717) 733-2104 or 142 E. Main St., New Holland, PA 17557, (717) 354-4117.

A followup panel discussion, chaired by Roger Moyer, Bank of Lancaster County, featured Howard, Appel, and Randy Kline, auctioneer and farm appraiser.

Also, the new Case IH products, including the Maxxum Tractor lines, were shown by Dennis Hann, product specialist for Case IH.

Adjuvant Enhances Herbicide Effectiveness

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. — Growers have an advanced new adjuvant designed to improve foliar uptake of post-emergence herbicides.

Developed by BASF Corporation, Dash®HC adjuvant enhances the effectiveness of postemergence herbicides on field crops such as corn, soybeans, forage crops, and fruit crops.

"Growers often use spray adjuvants with postemergence herbicides to maximize control while minimizing the variation caused by plant and environmental factors," said Mark Beale, market manager for BASF Agricultural Products Group. "Though many herbicide formulations include some form of surfactant, use of an additional adjuvant often improves the efficacy of the applied spray."

Research shows that many herbicides degrade rapidly on the foliage of treated plants when exposed to direct sunlight. But Dash HC greatly increases the rate of foliar uptake, thereby limiting photodegradation.

By optimizing uptake, Dash HC improves herbicidal activity under growing conditions. In addition, Dash HC allows a wider window of application timing because herbicide activity is increased even on larger weeds.

The improved performance Dash HC provides means that growers can obtain better and more consistent activity from their postemergence herbicides.

Don Hoover, sales manager, Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc., center, points to some of the features available in the brand-new for 1993 Kinze Model 2500 8-row planter line. More than 500 attended the Open House sponsored on Tuesday by Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

A special pesticide certification session provided 1 core point and 1 category point credits. Session members included Steve Fisher, FMC; Mike Flemming, American Cyanamid Co.; and Kurt Kinder-water, Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Services. A free lunch was provided to those who attended.

ALTERNATIVE

Duane L. Stevenson, Jr.
Farm Management
Northampton, Lehigh
Schuylkill, And Part Of Berks Counties

This is Part II on the topic of selecting a farming alternative.

The first article in the series dealt mainly with personal and family considerations. This article will deal primarily with identifying alternatives.

Identifying Alternatives

You may have already decided on an enterprise and may be eager to move on to the market potential, production, profitability, and financial feasibility segments of this column. First read this article prior to making a rash decision.

Resource Inventory. Your resource base needs to be evaluated before settling on a specific enterprise. The purpose of conducting a resource inventory is to show the limitations as well as the opportunities presented by your current situation.

As a general rule, the route to success avoids enterprises which require resources that are lacking, and takes advantage of resources that are underutilized. Also an accurate inventory will assist you in completing market and production evaluations.

A complete farm inventory includes inventories on: (1) physical resources, (2) marketing resources, (3) management and labor resources, (4) by-product resources, and (5) financial resources. One should prepare a map showing the layout of buildings, woodlots, fields, water resources, soil types, and other resources.

If you have completed a farm inventory in the past, all you need to do is update the inventory. If this is your first resource inventory, much time will be involved in completing this task and accuracy is very important. You may have to take soil samples, measure fields, and visit your local Soil Conservation Office, ASCS, and other offices to complete reliable inventory information.

The next step in identifying alternatives is to list several possible new enterprises by mixing and matching identified resources with potential markets. If your ideas are not flowing, try one of the following suggestions:

- Look over the resource inventory information that you have compiled. Mark in red: underutilized physical, labor, and management resources; all potential markets; and all potential uses for by-products.

- Summarize inventory information and show to farm and non-farm friends for their feedback. Some people that you may want to involve may include cooperative extension agents and specialists, lenders, co-workers, and others for additional input.

- Talk to current buyers. Do they have any unfulfilled demands?

- Ask your farm and nonfarm neighbors what kinds of services they currently use and which they would like to see available.

- Read agricultural magazines, food magazines, and trade journals, and become a regular reader of the daily newspaper. These are ways to determine what people are buying and why.

- Talk to other farmers. Ask them about what other farmers are doing that you could do.

- If you travel, keep your eyes and ears open for new ideas that you can take home.

Remember, a good idea doesn't have to be a new idea; it just has to fit your needs, work on your land, pay the bills, and generate a profit. I will discuss the marketing aspect of an enterprise in a future article.

Schuylkill To Hold Spring Consignment Auction

SUMMIT STATION (SCHUYLKILL CO.) — Schuylkill County Fair will hold its annual spring consignment auction on April 3, at the Schuylkill Fair Grounds, Summit Station, starting at 9 a.m.

Items to be auctioned include lawn equipment, tools, antiques, nursery stock, household goods, and new building supplies.

Starting at 6 p.m. more than 200 Farm Toy and Winross trucks, Ertel Banks, and matchbox toys will be auctioned.

During the day, a Chinese Auction benefitting the 4-H Exchange Club will also be conducted.

Plenty of good food made by the Fair Association will be sold. Flea market tables are available.

The Fair committee is looking for quality consignment articles to benefit the fair. Consignments will be accepted on Thursday, April 1, and Fri, April 2, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Delegation From China Visits Area Pork Producers

MARIETTA (Lancaster Co.) — A delegation from the Peoples Republic of China representing the Ministry of Agriculture, hosted by DEKALB Swine Breeders, made a visit to Pennsylvania during the month of December. The delegation was here to study the latest technology in the U.S. swine industry. During their visit, the group was exposed to a state of the art, intensive swine operation, owned by HERSHEY AG and ESBENSHADE MILLS of Mount Joy. The five member delegation toured the Aspen Perry Farm located near Newport. The farm is a total confinement facility which houses 1800 sows exclusively used for commercial swine production. The 72 farrow per week unit, raises the pigs to approximately 50 pounds at 8 weeks of age. From the farrowing unit, the pigs are transferred to one of several all-in, all-out finishing floors. The delegation also toured a representative finisher which houses 3000 market hogs.

Comments received from the delegation were most complimentary. "The breeding stock and facilities were the best we have ever seen," stated Qiu Zhenyuan, Deputy Director of Animal Husbandry Bureau. "The management level must be excellent to maintain the breeding herd like peas in a pod. The market animals looked healthy and vigorous," stated Sun Qihong, Project Officer, (MOA). The combination of high quality feed, a sound management program, state of the art facilities, and high quality genetics has made for a successful production program.

The delegation continued their journey to visit other facets of Animal Agriculture including broiler and laying hen farms in the Midwest.

Perry County Extension Meets

MILLERSTOWN (Perry Co.) — Charlie and Virginia Beaver, and Fred Noye were among several county residents honored at the Annual Meeting of Perry County Cooperative Extension. Beavers were honored with a citation from the Pennsylvania House of Representatives recognizing their achievements in attaining the Master Farmer Award. County Extension Director Dave Swartz presented a slide show highlighting Beaver's farm operation. This slide presentation featured Charlie's work in soil conservation, his reliance on no-till crop production and Charlie and Ginny's involvement in community organizations.

Fred Noye was presented the "Friend of Extension" Award for his many years of support, both locally and statewide, for Penn State Cooperative Extension and Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Eileen Latchford, nutrition advisor for a nutrition education program administered through the Extension Office, was recognized for her 15 years of work in the program.

Kendall Byers, Millerstown and Ed Horn, Loysville, were presented with "Conservation Farmer of the Year Awards" from the Perry County Soil Conservation District during the evening's program.

Approximately 95 county residents attended the annual Meeting held at the Perry Valley Grange Hall which was chaired by Extension Board of Directors' President Brenda Benner, Millerstown. The meeting is held each year to highlight the work accomplished in Perry County by Penn State Cooperative Extension, an affirmative action, equal opportunity organization. The programs provided by Cooperative Extension are open to all individuals. To receive a copy of the 1992 Annual Report or to obtain information about Extension's educational programs, call 582-2131, ext. 243.

Club To Hold Dairy Judging Contest

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairy Science Club invites you to participate in its annual judging contest to be held on Saturday, March 20, at Penn State University's Ag Arena.

The contest is open to both individuals and teams. There will be six divisions in the contest: senior FFA, junior FFA, senior 4-H, junior 4-H, collegiate amateur, and collegiate professional.

Each county is limited to eight participants and anyone competing in the junior division must be born on or after January 1, 1979. Junior FFA members must not have reached the tenth grade.

Any 4-H member can judge in the senior 4-H division. People who have competed at the National 4-H Judging Contest in Madison, Wis., are ineligible for the 4-H division, and FFA members who have competed in the National Dairy Judging Contest in Kansas City, Mo., are ineligible for FFA competition.

In the afternoon, a notetaking and group reasons workshop will be held for the junior FFA and 4-H contestants and coaches. Junior FFA and 4-H division contestants will have the opportunity to give one set of oral reasons or attend the workshop. They cannot do both things, and the reasons will not be counted when calculating high teams and individuals in this division.

However, the three highest scoring individuals in junior reasons will receive a ribbon or a plaque. Junior FFA and 4-H contestants giving reasons must be pre-entered and designated on the entry form. You cannot sign up the day of the contest to give junior FFA and 4-H reasons.

The entry fee is $4 per contestant plus $4 per coach if paid in advance. This fee covers the cost of lunch and mailings and should accompany the entry form. For late entries on the day of the contest or after the deadline, cost will be $5 per contestant and coach. Entries are due by March 5.

PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

MODEL 90 FARROWING CRATE

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the cow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping on the piglets. This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

the underlying cause of much of the lameness affecting dairy heifers and cows. Foot problems are being more frequently reported in first calving dairy heifers today than they were perhaps 10 years ago."

Greenough has done extensive investigations into the causes of foot problems, especially working with beef cattle, which also have been experiencing foot problems.

According to Greenough, one of the major causes of laminitis is pushing animals to gain weight, and changing their diets too quickly.

He said that especially during the interval before and after calving, the change in diet stresses the ability of the rumen microbes to digest the amount of energy being fed.

He said that what happens is the microbial populations need time to adjust to the new feeds and if they don't get they opportunity to adjust properly, the lining of the rumen is irritated. Furthermore, there is the production of toxins, specifically lactic acid, in the rumen and with the wall of the rumen irritated, the lactic acid gets into the blood stream.

He explained that in the foot of the cattle the arterial blood flow is such that it travels down toward the toe and passes through a group of muscles which inflate under pressure and deflate to cushion the weight of the animal.

There is also a sort of emergency blood-flow bypass system, a shunt, through which the blood will flow if there is a problem with the flow through the cushioning muscles.

What happens with laminitis is that lactic acid in the blood paralyzes the muscles, not allowing for the cushioning effect. If it continues, permanent damage can occur.

"Most research workers agree that nutritional factors are the most important cause of laminitis," Greenough wrote. "This observation is by no means cut and dried. Animals fed exactly similar rations under apparently similar circumstances are not always affected in a similar manner.

"It has been suggested that many factors are involved in causing laminitis."

Greenough went over a number of different causes for laminitis, but generally he warned against pushing young cattle, especially heifers, to grow too fast by feeding concentrate.

Further, he said that energy, the carbohydrate portion of the ration, is the main cause of foot problems, not protein. Protein only becomes a factor when it is overfed and the young growing animal's body converts the protein for uses as energy.

Greenough's talk followed his handout fairly closely and copies of the handout are available through either extension office.

It is a specific and information packed 26-page document which covers in detail some of the symptoms and causes of a range of foot problems.

Also giving a presentation was Dan McFarland, multi-county agricultural engineering agent, who talked about some of the specifics with tunnel ventilation. Tunnel ventilation has been increasing in popularity because it provides a healthier and more comfortable environment for the cow.

As its name implies, tunnel ventilation creates a one-directional flow of air to achieve greater air exchange which has several beneficial aspects on the health and comfort of the cow, and it can also provide a more efficient energy use than having more than one air inlet and outlet.

The Lebanon meeting was different from the Lancaster meeting in that four couples who have family dairy farms offered to sit on a panel and discuss how they keep from being burned out in the profession.

While the panel members were familiar to most of the audience, they shared a number of anecdotes and opinions about how they live. The common thread throughout, however, was that each couple prioritized their family first, and respected each other's needs.

Dr. Paul Greenough talks about cattle foot problems and how to identify them.

Northeast DHIA Offers Computer Services

Manage. A verb, 1. to control the movement or behavior of; 2. to have charge of; direct; 3. to succeed in accomplishing.

Northeast Dairy Herd Improvement wants dairy producers to become successful. DHIA helps the producer achieve success by providing one of the necessary tools to manage; records.

As producer needs have changed, so too have the tools necessary to effectively manage. More and more supervisors are carrying laptop computers to the farm as DHIA continues to implement the Day-one program.

Through this program, reports can be left on the farm on sample day to help producers manage more effectively. Traditional testing services are thriving with the addition of several new testing plans and more flexible testing schedules.

As farms become more diverse, so must the services producers depend upon to manage their business.

Recently, we saw the introduction of Dairy Comp 305 as an additional product of Northeast DHIA. This on-farm management package is "stand-alone" software, but integrates comfortably into the DHI system with electronic transfer of data between Dairy Comp and Day-One.

Dairy Comp has as one of its biggest advantages, the flexibility to record, list, summarize, plot, graph, analyze and print just about anything a good herd manager could ever want, and more.

It is at the same time a friendly, intuitive program written for the dairy producer and veterinarian, not the computer hobbyist. A second advantage of Dairy

Comp 305 may be the support and service philosophy of Northeast DHIA.

The cooperative believes not just in customer service, but in good customer service. Helping members and non-members to make the best use of a new management tool is a primary goal. It is what Dairy Herd Improvement is all about.

Currently, we are seeing the introduction of another new product and service at Northeast DHIA. After careful consideration, the agreement has been made to begin the sale and support of Afikim dairy management equipment.

Israel is the largest manufacturer of electronic milk recording equipment. The SAE Afikim Company was founded in Israel over 15 years ago in response to a demand from Israeli dairymen to produce a new, more sophisticated generation of dairy automation and management equipment.

Israeli dairies are at the forefront of dairy production technology with 100 percent official milk recording, the highest average milk yield of any country, and the most automated milking parlors.

The Afikim customer service philosophy compliments that of Northeast DHIA.

1. SAE Afikim equipment should be developed in close cooperation with dairy producers.

2. The equipment must be built with a minimum of parts and simple enough for the dairy producer to handle routine maintenance themselves.

3. The design of the equipment must be consistently modular to allow the easy incorporation of new technology as it becomes available.

The computerized Afimilk dairy herd management system gathers data on milk production and milk conductivity from the electronic milk meter. This information is tied to an in-parlor cow ID system which also monitors cow activity via a pedometer located in an identification tag worn on the cow's leg.

The Afimilk system consists of MM85 automatic milk meters, AFI-ACT Identification, Tags/Activity Measurement Meters, and a central computer.

Among the general features of the system are flagging cows that are likely to be in heat; flagging cows likely to have mastitis; production monitoring; flagging cows that deviate in some way from their expected performance.

Afimilk establishes a norm for each cow and provides a warning when there is any deviation from this norm.

For example, at every milking the Afimilk system collects and analyzes the yield and electrical conductivity of the milk building an individual profile for each cow in the herd.

When significant changes in the milk conductivity occur along with significant changes in individual milk production, the computer automatically issues a report indicating that the cow is likely in the early stages of mastitis.

Afikim's approach is based on a producer's need for increased profitability.

Volunteer Helps Set Up 4-H Program In Poland

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Connie Rutt grew up in 4-H, met her husband through 4-H, and has been a 4-H leader ever since she was too old to be a member.

It's no surprise that Connie wants to see people in other countries have the opportunity to participate in 4-H.

And, it is no surprise that Connie was selected to be the first 4-H volunteer to accompany a Penn State agricultural team to Poland.

The team's purpose was to teach free enterprise, marketing, and 4-H and youth development programs.

Connie is pleased that Poland has decided to focus on setting up 4-H youth programs.

"It's exciting because this is the first generation in Poland that can decide what they want to do," Connie said. "The future of Poland lies in its youth."

Connie said that according to Megatrends 2000, which projects world trends, Poland could be a major economic influence by the 21st Century. To do so would require economic, political, and social reforms, but Poland's efforts so far are considered successful.

In their determination to make the free market enterprise work, inflation has dropped from as high as 250 percent to 3.4 percent a month and interest rates have dropped from 78 percent last year to 49 percent.

Despite these optimistic trends, Poland has a long way to go before the transition from government to private control will be made. Many of the same people who ran the Communist system are now trying to run the free-market version. It is believed that Poland will suffer much financial hardship before a successful transition takes place, but Poland is familiar with hardships.

The country was destroyed in World War I and II and throughout its history as neighboring countries overran them. Most recently it had been oppressed by Communist rule.

"The interesting thing is that each time the country was demolished, they rebuilt it exactly as it had been," Connie said. "When you stand in Warsaw, it's difficult to believe that the buildings are basically new because the architectural style is ancient. There is not much color or landscaping."

While the older generation seems conditioned to stay to themselves and the teachers a bit skeptical, the students themselves were eager to learn about western-style co-ops. They especially enjoyed brainstorming — a new concept and a deviation from the lecture-style teaching that dominates the schools.

To teach the free enterprise system to students, Connie used slides of her family farm to explain sole proprietorship. Connie and her husband, Ken, have a 400-acre dairy farm, where they milk 100 registered Holsteins. A 22-year-old son, Philip, is in charge of the dairy herd. The Rutts have a daughter, Lori, 23, and another son Matthew, 18.

Funding for the Poland trip did not come from Penn State Extension but from private companies, mostly Polish-American businesses that want to help their mother country in the transition from dictatorship to free enterprise.

The team worked in two agricultural technical schools, each for a week at a time. Top students, who ranged from 14 to 20 years old, were hand picked to participate in the all-day training. At one school, 20 participated and at the other 30 were part of the training.

"The biggest problem was making sure that the interpreters understood what we were saying since translation can't be done word for word but by concepts," Connie said.

At first, the participants had a difficult time grasping the concept of western-style cooperatives since the word automatically is equated with a cooperative farm run by the Communists.

The Penn State team see cooperatives as the answer to the marketing and processing of agricultural products in Poland. Because families own only a couple of cows, it is not feasible for them to invest in milking parlors or tanks. Much of the milk is wasted and it is not used for drinking since refrigeration methods are antiquated.

Connie also taught parliamentary procedure to the students.

"On the final day, the staff made up questions from business reform to parliamentary procedure and the students had to explain their answers. They expounded on the answers and it was really neat to see how much they understood," Connie said.

To explain sole proprietorship to the Polish students, Connie used slides of the dairy farm that she and her husband, Ken, operate in Quarryville.

These agricultural representatives taught free enterprise during their three-week visit to Poland. From left, William Harshman, vo/ag teacher; Zoann Parker, 4-H youth extension agent; Connie Rutt, 4-H volunteer; Dr. Donald Evans, Penn State assistant dean; Dr. Stanislaus Czuba, governor of Sklerniwcice Province; Marie Holownia, director of ag education for Poland; Dr. Lou Moore, PSU economist; and Lee Hayes, 4-H member and PSU student.

She was also impressed that the students seem future oriented and when asked what they would do with a million dollars, most had a business in mind that they would like to begin or an idea to help charitable organizations.

As part of the farewell, the students put on a folk dance and made potato pancakes for the U.S. team. Students made Connie promise to teach 4-H'ers in Lancaster to make potato pancakes.

By the time the team left Poland, leaders and officers had set up an agenda to establish a 4-H program.

Connie said that there is a possibility that the extension will work by satellite to help ODR agents (similar to extension agents) set up a 4-H program. She also hopes that she will be able to return and help strengthen the program. While there, she challenged the older students to be the first volunteers in the 4-H program. Connie explained that volunteering is a different concept since the Communist government formerly oversaw every organization.

The heritage of the Polish people excels in crafts such as embroidery, woodcarving, and paper cutting.

Connie, whose life seems to be centered around working with youth, is in charge of the Solanco Community Club, with 43 members in the sewing club.

"We even have several boys in the club," Connie said.

The club meets at the high school after school is dismissed so that members can use the sewing machines. Connie also sets up several machines in the spacious dining room of her farmhouse for the members to use.

"During the month of June, there isn't a day that kids aren't here sewing," Connie said. She has the satisfaction of seeing many of her students advance to regional competition.

Recently, she secured a federal grant to purchase six sewing machines for the club — a big help in finding machines for those whose parents don't own one.

Connie is a board member with the county extension and represents Lancaster County on the regional and state boards. The Rutts are active members of the Mechanic Grove Church of the Brethren where they have been long-term youth advisors. For the past nine years, Connie has been in charge of costuming for the Solanco High School plays. At present, she needs to prepare costumes for 70 students who are staging Fiddler On The Roof.

Visiting foreign countries is not new to Connie who, with her husband, had been to Europe several times and to Africa. For the past 18 months, the Rutt's daughter has been working in Mexico and plans to work in Russia for another term under the Eastern Mennonite Mission Board.

Connie Rutt pages through photos as she tells about Poland and the students who were eager to learn about the 4-H program.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Our four-leafed clovers are dormant. Rabbits' feet are in semi-hibernation with the rabbits. The last of the salt for throwing over my shoulder was sprinkled on the ice coating the front walk some days ago.

And the IRS has my lucky penny.

It began with silence. Dead silence. Broken by the sound of pounding. At 6 a.m.?

The silence came from the basement, where the perpetual hum of the water pump usually sounds. So did the intermittent pounding. It took a few seconds for a sleepy brain to piece the puzzle and signal the feet to get movin'.

Pump trouble. I split for the barn to help with milking, while the Farmer set about installing the back-up water pump we always have on standby. Two hours and a barnful of empty udders later, the cows were still nosing at dry water fountains.

Usually he can switch the pumps and have the system back up in short order. Split pipes created more unusual problems this time. No use to cancel my optometrist appointment for that morning; I couldn't get water to finish chores anyway.

Plans for the day were to leave late afternoon for the mountain hunting camp, with friends joining us. But their small son, already undergoing leukemia chemotherapy, had developed a troublesome fever. That was the scary news shared when I called to beg the use of their shower.

We rarely have pump trouble; the few times it's happened we've usually been away, or are about to leave. This was par for the course.

Back home, concerned about little Andy's fever and still bone-dry at the spigots, I set out to vent frustration by lugging water from the springhouse to heat for calf bottles.

Fortunately, disturbed by plumping efforts, she had moved. She, we think. The humongous dark-gray water snake that stands, 'er coils, guard over our water supply and the plentiful frogs on the nearby pond. Dipping water from the spring meant leaning directly over her snoozing spot; I was just as happy she had disappeared.

Calves finally fed, makeshift lunch put together using a little of the water borrowed from Andy's house, our pump system was still filled with only rust and air bubbles.

Andy and his mom stopped by on the way home from his blood test. The sun was bringing out the lucky four-leafed clovers — Andy's fever was a treatable ear infection.

Mid-afternoon brought the plumber. Still all air and rust. The cows had been turned out earlier around the pond for water, giddily circling its bright reflection to drink deeply — for about 10 minutes until they began wandering off hunting trouble.

Back in the barn, they persistently nudged the dry fountains. Snake still absent, I dipped and heated more water for washing cows at evening milking. A half-hour into milking chores, the barn filled with the sound of kids sucking milk-cartons with straws. Water!

The lucky rabbits' feet had come out of hibernation and hopped to the plumber. Six hours later, the pump finally got a rest.

One week and one day later, we awoke to no water. No electricity. Iced-up electric lines, resulting in a barn full of thirsty, full-uddered, cussing (really!) cows. I sprinkled salt over my shoulder for luck and all over the walks for safety. Eventually, power was restored.

To wake up and hear the pump, turn on the lights, and — best of all — have no one sick, makes me feel very, very fortunate.

What the heck. IRS, you can just keep that lucky penny.

Lancaster Society 15

Lancaster Farm Women Society 15 met at the home of Betty Kreider, Quarryville, with assisting hostesses Shirley Ann Kleckler and Charlotte Stoner.

Devotions were given by Charlotte Stoner. Twenty-two members responded to roll call by naming their favorite dairy product. Ice cream was chosen by the majority.

Louise Wenger introduced Lancaster County Dairy Princess Jill Harnish who said that there is no substitute for milk. She told of the 1,900 farms in the county of which she and her family own one on which they milk 54 Holsteins.

The secretary report was given by Trudy Bard and the treasurer's report by Charlotte Stoner.

Society 15 will be celebrating their 55th anniversary this year. Nancy Shoemaker, Emily Reath, and Joan Whiteside were appointed to plan for the celebration.

Farm Women 15 are invited to be guests of Society 33 on March 4 for 6:30 supper at the Farm and Home Center.

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster County Farm Women Society #18 met February 20 at Kreider's Restaurant, Manheim with 21 members attending. President Ruth Rohrer was in charge. Suie Wissler had devotions. Roll call was answered by showing and telling about a favorite basket.

The speaker was Phoebe Good. Phoebe demonstrated basket making and showed the many different kinds of baskets she makes.

Members will sew at the Lancaster General Hospital on Wednesday, March 17.

Mildred Greider will be the hostess for the March meeting.

Lancaster Society 19

The February 13th meeting of Lancaster Farm Women's Society #19 was held at the home of June Bare. Devotions were led by Phyllis Newcomer and members answered the roll call to "I wish I had learned to"

Suggestions were taken for the County Project. The group will sew at the Lancaster General Hospital March 4 and will go to the County Home May 20 to entertain the guests.

Reports of the State Convention were given by Eva Myers and Mildred Eshleman.

Naomi Spahr, board member on the Pennsylvania Agriculture Safety Council, gave an interesting talk on the work the Council does to make life on the farm more safe.

The next meeting will be held March 13th at the home of Mildred Hoffman.

New York Crowns Dairy Princess

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Jennie Depew from Argyle, New York in Washington County was crowned the 1993-94 New York State Dairy Princess on February 16 at Sheraton Inn, Syracuse, New York.

This year was the 30th anniversary pageant sponsored by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC). As state princess, Jennie received a $1,200 scholarship and will devote an additional year speaking on behalf of New York's dairy industry. She has already served a year as a county dairy princess.

Christy L. Uhl of Randolph, New York, was named first alternate state princess. She received a $700 scholarship. Jennifer Beightol of Falconer, New York, was selected as second alternate state princess. She received a $600 scholarship. Both alternate princesses will assist the state princess with various appearances throughout the state.

Dairy princesses from 31 counties competed in the February event. Selection of the state princess was based on a three-part judging process. The young women went through personal interviews, presented a three to five minute speech for an adult audience, and a school presentation appropriate for an elementary school audience. The young women were judged on their knowledge of the dairy, industry, enthusiasm, communication skills, creativity, poise, and appearance.

In addition to this, they created dairy promotion scrapbooks for competition. Christy Uhl of Cattaraugus County, Jennifer Beightol of Chautauqua County and Meg Kenyon of Delaware County were awarded $75 in prize money for the top three scrapbooks.

Three speech awards of $150 were presented to Sara Abend of Onondaga County, Rebecca Henderson of St. Lawrence County, and Stephanie Houser of Lewis County for their winning speeches and school presentations. Honorable Mention for speech presentations went to Christy Uhl, Jennifer Beightol, Jennie Depew and Judi Griffiths of Otsego County.

Valery Russell from Lafargeville in Jefferson County was chosen "Miss Congeniality" by her fellow princesses for her friendly and outgoing manner during the two-day competition. She was awarded $50 from Ag Radio Network and received a silver heart-shaped jewel box on behalf of all the princess candidates.

Appliance Tips

As the March winds howl, and the mercury hovers around the freezing point . . . it's the perfect time to shop for an air conditioner!

Many appliance retailers offer special deals on room air conditioners during the winter months, so smart consumers can plan ahead and save before summer starts to simmer.

After a relatively mild summer last year, some dealers may find themselves overstocked with air conditioners. Consumers who shop for these models during the off-season are often treated to low close-out prices.

Some appliance dealers may offer deferred financing, which lets you purchase an air conditioner in the winter without any payments until June or July.

A final advantage to shopping for an air conditioner now is that you can take extra time to shop around, compare prices and features . . . and avoid making a bad choice in the heat of the summer.

Like buying a wool sweater in May, shopping for air conditioners in the winter may seem odd at first . . . but smart shopping knows no season!

Dealing With Water Heater Gas Build-Up
Unpacking, checking phone messages, turning up the thermostat are all part of coming home from a winter vacation.

But wait! Before turning on any water-using appliances, one more precaution is in order: running your water to get rid of hydrogen gas build-up.

Hot water systems produce hydrogen gas as a result of a chemical reaction between the water and the corrosive protection device inside the water heater.

During normal hot water use, this gas escapes in small safe amounts. But when nobody uses hot water for an extended period of time, the gas can accumulate in the water heater, even if it is turned off. On rare occasions, this can even result in an explosion from an open flame or a spark from an electrical appliance.

When returning from a vacation of two weeks or more, turn on the hot water faucets and let the water run for about two minutes before using your washer or dishwasher. This releases any built-up hydrogen gas. Be sure to extinguish any open flame or smoking materials before running the water.

This simple safety tip is also handy when moving into a new home, where the hot water has not been used for a while.

TAKING TIME

by Rebecca Escott

Extension Home Economist

This past week, I once again celebrated a long-standing family tradition of making fastnachts for breakfast on Tuesday in anticipation of Lent. Getting up early in the morning to finish the process gave me time to think about this special event.

The recipe I used was given to me by my great-grandmother. It's the one my grandmother and mother use, too. I wonder if my great-grandmother learned it when she was young. (She never needed to measure any of the ingredients. She could tell if it was okay by the feel of the dough.) Anyway, in the early hours of the morning, I reflected on how this simple recipe of yeast, flour and mashed potatoes linked me to my family across at least four generations.

Family traditions are crucial in an era when children and parents are scattered across the globe. Simple routines on days sprinkled throughout the year will unite us in thought and will stir warm memories. We need that. We need to sense our link to other people and to other generations. Traditions support families. They give members a sense of security and belonging. They are tools that help us communicate our values. Emma Wisdom, author of A Practical Guide to Planning a Family Reunion, suggests emphasizing traditions that draw children into the circle of conversation or activity and make them feel comfortable and connected.

Traditions are often linked to holidays, but they don't need to be. In fact during the dreary months of winter, your family may really enjoy the challenge of creating a fun, new family ritual. Or you may want to reminisce about something you all did in earlier years but haven't tried recently. What tradition could you resurrect just for a night?

As I'm writing, my mind is recalling a host of traditions and rituals that I treasure. For instance, when I want to salute my husband for an accomplishment, I always bake peanut butter cookies. I also remember the rituals associated with visiting grandparents. At the one home, we would always race to the attic first thing to try out the trapeze that hung there. When we visited my other grandparents, I could count on a "pretzel for the road" as we got ready to leave.

One of the good things about family traditions-and yet one of the difficult things-is that they can change as families grow and change. Families sometimes get so bogged down in living ALL the routines to a point where the meaning and joy are lost. Don't get caught in that trap. Think about how a tradition could be modified. And when you are ready to break away, out of choice or necessity, try this. The loss of giving up a tradition is sometimes less painful if you take a few moments to write down your memories about it. When would you practice the tradition? Who would be there? For how many years was this an important part of your life or the life of your family? If you have pictures, these may capture the nostalgia in a special way. Once the tradition is written, it is preserved. That frees a family to say, "This will always be a part of our history. We will not forget it" (even if it is no longer practiced). Traditions throughout the year help bind families together. I'd love to hear some of your family's traditions and their meaning to you. Send a card with your story or suggestion to me at Lehigh County Cooperative Extension Office, 4184 Dorney Park Road, Allentown, PA 18104. Perhaps in the coming weeks, we can share a few ideas.

Dieticians Organize Hunger Awareness Week

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dietetic Association announced today it is coordinating Hunger Awareness Week, March 13 - 20, in observance of National Nutrition Month. From Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, registered dietitians in cities across the state are collaborating with their local anti-hunger networks to assist in food collection and to provide educational programs on food safety, menu planning, and basic nutrition for feeding-site volunteers.

The week-long event kicks off with a press conference at the Capitol Rotunda in Harrisburg Monday, March 15, at noon. State officials and representatives from various state food and nutrition organizations are scheduled to speak.

"Hunger Awareness Week 1993 is a statewide event that enables dietitians, anti-hunger organizations and community groups to work together to help feed the hungry in our own neighborhoods," explains Cynthia Brylinsky, R.D., President of the Pennsylvania Dietetic Association.

For the name of a registered dietitian in your area who can provide information on local events contact the Pennsylvania Dietetic Association at (717) 236-1220.

Briggs Scholarship Goes To Guyton

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Stacy Guyton was awarded the Leo Briggs Memorial Scholarship of $500 at the 33rd annual meeting of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. on February 15 at the Sheraton Inn, Syracuse, New York. Scholarship eligibility is based on leadership in the area of dairy promotion, and interest in agriculture or nutrition as it pertains to the dairy industry.

Guyton is from Jefferson,

Maryland and attends Virginia Tech. At school, Guyton is active in several organizations, including the Virginia Tech Dairy Club and American Dairy Science Association. In addition to her school activities, Guyton works for her family on Guy-Dell Farm and at Gaywinds Farm, where she deals with all aspects of the dairy operation. She works as a dairy correspondent for the farm publication Farmshine, reporting on dairy promotion events. Her future plans include managing a dairy herd, and continuing as a dairy journalist.

Potatoes Spud Great Recipes

The potato has been criticized for being "just a starch." There's a lot more to potatoes, of course, but the carbohydrates potatoes provide are important to a good diet. Carbohydrates are the body's primary source of fuel for energy. The brain, for example, uses about 20 to 25 percent of the daily intake of fuel (measured in calories) and this fuel should be in the form of carbohydrates. Furthermore, carbohydrates are not especially fattening, as is commonly thought. Gram for gram, fats are more than twice as fattening as either carbohydrates or proteins. And, potatoes are virtually fat-free.

OVEN BAKED POTATO WEDGES

4 large potatoes with skins
4 tablespoons butter
Paprika, to taste
Salt, to taste
Parmesan cheese, optional
Melt butter in baking pan. Cut each potato into 6 or 8 wedges. Put potatoes in baking pan and turn until all wedges are coated with butter. Sprinkle with salt and paprika. Bake in 400 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

POTATO SKIN LOVER'S RECIPE

4 large potatoes
1 tablespoon extra-light olive oil
Paprika, to taste
Scrub potatoes well. Do not peel. Cut the potatoes lengthwise into six wedges and dry them on paper towel.

Toss potato wedges with oil until well coated. Place potatoes on baking sheet and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in 450 degree oven for 35 minutes or until fork tender. Serves 6.

BLUE CHEESE TOPPING FOR POTATOES

¾ cup lowfat cottage cheese
¾ cup ricotta cheese
½ cup crumbled blue cheese
¼ cup buttermilk
¾ teaspoon Italian dressing
¾ teaspoon pepper
Baked potatoes

Place cottage and ricotta cheeses in small mixer bowl. Beat on high speed until almost smooth. Beat in blue cheese, buttermilk, and seasonings. Spoon over baked potatoes. Store remaining topping in covered container in refrigerator for up to 5 days.

POTATO CHEESE PUFF

2 cups mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 tablespoon grated onion
½ cup commercial sour cream
3 eggs, separated
Salt, pepper, paprika, to taste
Combine butter, cottage cheese, onion, and sour cream to potatoes with an electric mixer. Beat egg yolk, salt, and pepper into the potato mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, turn into greased 1½-quart casserole and dust with paprika. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes or until potatoes are puffed high and golden brown. Serves 6.

SKINNY FRENCH FRIES

4 medium potatoes, peeled, cut in strips
2 tablespoons salad oil
Salt
Paprika
While cutting potatoes, keep strips in bowl of ice water to crisp. Drain and pat dry on paper towels. Spread strips in one layer on jelly-roll pan. Sprinkle with oil. Shake pan to distribute oil evenly over potatoes.

Bake strips at 450 degrees until golden brown and tender, about 30 to 40 minutes, turning frequently. Sprinkle generously with salt and paprika.

Makes 8 servings, about 100 calories each serving.

POTATO EGG SUPPER

3 strips bacon
3 cups potatoes, cooked and diced
3 hard cooked eggs, sliced
½ can cream of celery soup
½ cup milk
Onion salt, to taste
¼ teaspoon oregano
Garlic salt, to taste
Pepper, to taste
1 tablespoon instant onion
3 tablespoons cheddar cheese
Fry bacon and crumble. Brush 1-quart casserole with a little bacon fat. Layer potatoes, bacon, and egg in the casserole. Blend soup, milk, and seasonings and pour over potato mixture. Sprinkle cheese over top; cover and bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Serves 4.

The average baking potato provides less than 10mg sodium, 0g fat, and only 110 calories. Potatoes are a good source of dietary fiber (2710mg) and potassium (750mg).

PARTY POTATOES

8-10 medium potatoes, peeled
1 cup sour cream
8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1½ teaspoons garlic salt or powder
1 teaspoon onion salt or powder
Butter
Paprika

Boil and drain potatoes. Beat together sour cream and cream cheese until well blended. Beat in hot potatoes gradually. Add seasonings. Spoon into 2-quart casserole, dot with butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika during last 15 minutes. This is better prepared the day before and baked for 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Freezes well.

DIJON MUSTARD POTATOES

6 medium potatoes
6 tablespoons butter, divided
2 medium onions, chopped
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken broth
Dash salt and pepper
¼ cup Dijon mustard or desired flavor

½ cup bread crumbs
Chopped parsley, optional
Boil potatoes in skins until tender. Drain, peel, and slice into pieces. In saucepan, over medium heat, melt 3 tablespoons butter; add onion and cook until soft. Do not brown. Stir in flour, mixing well. Add broth gradually, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Bring to a simmer until thick, add mustard and blend well. Butter large casserole dish and arrange potato pieces on bottom. Pour sauce over all and sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Top with parsley. Bake, uncovered, at 375 degrees for 20 minutes.

As Lancaster County's Dairy Princess, Jill Harnish often tells people, "Each of us need dairy products in our diet with milk containing not only calcium but also 58 other nutrients."

Jill works on the home dairy farm in Christiana. Jill's parents, R. Edwin and Arlene, have 200 Holsteins and crop farm 220 acres.

A senior at Solanco High School, Jill is a member of the National Honor Society, Young Educators of America, and president of the FFA. She is also a member of the Kirkwood 4-H Club and county 4-H Dairy Bowl Team, and president of Kids and Kows 4-H.

This is one of her favorite dairy recipes.

Four-Layer Chocolate Delight

½ cup butter, melted
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup chopped walnuts
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup confectioners' sugar
12 ounces whipped cream
2 small packages instant chocolate pudding
3 cups cold milk
Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Combine butter, flour, and walnuts; press into the bottom of 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool. Meanwhile, beat cream cheese and sugar in a mixing bowl until creamy. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream; spread over crust. Chill. Prepare pudding mixes with milk. Spread over cream cheese layer. Spread remaining whipped cream on top. Refrigerate for 3 hours. Yield: 12-15 servings.

Never Too Busy To Head Fulton Farm Women

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
MCCONNELLSBURG (Fulton Co.) — When a neighbor first invited Barb Lease to a Fulton County Farm Women meeting, Barb was hesitant about the time commitment required of membership in the organization.

"You need this for yourself," the neighbor advised Barb.

Barb agreed. That was 15 years ago and during those years, Barb said, "I learned that I really do need Farm Women. This is one thing I do that is not related to work. This is my fun group."

Recently Barb was installed as president of the Fulton County Farm Women with its two societies and 30 members.

It is not easy for Barb to take on county leadership, for she works an average of 67 hours a week at the print and newspaper shop that she and her husband purchased about 10 years ago.

"On a particularly bad week, I hit 95 hours, but that's unusual," said Barb whose responsibilities include acting as personnel manager, editor, proof reader, writer, ad salesperson, and whatever else needs to be done at Keystone Printing and Mercersburg Journal, a weekly paper for Franklin County. Barb primarily takes care of the newspaper end while her husband is in charge of the printing division.

Before Barb and her husband purchased the shop, Barb taught English and French at a local high school.

The Leases live on a 53-acre farm where they raise about 50

sheep, a mostly Hampshire cross flock bred for meat.

They also have bee hives set in the fields.

This past week, the family was busy cooking maple syrup on a wood stove. The syrup came from two trees that the Leases tapped close to their house.

"We got a couple of pints for our own use," Barb said. "The project was one that my children and my husband Gene did."

Barb grew up as a city girl in Wilkes Barre. She studied English and theatre at Penn State where she met Gene who grew up on a dairy and beef farm in the McConnellsburg area.

"I always say that I met my husband at Penn State and followed him home," Barb said.

That was about 20 years ago. Now the couple have two daughters and one son, April, 14; Eric, 11; and Rachel, 6.

Unlike many career women, Barb said, "I've been fortunate that I have been able to bring the children to the office while I work. We know where they are, they help out some, and we have no problem with having them at the office."

But life is getting a bit more hectic for Barb explained, "We entered the stage where the kids have an active life, and it takes lots of time to get them to places."

Barb is active in the Chamber of Commerce in both Fulton and Mercersburg. She is a past member of the local library board and several agency boards.

Some of the highlights of her Farm Women membership include holding an auction in November.

"It's when members bid on each other's stuff and donate the money to a local charity or needy person," she said.

Fun activities include going to the Totem Pole Play House and holding an ice cream social and a county covered dish supper with members' families. Members also learn to make many crafts and every two years, the societies hold a county convention.

Of all her activities, Barb said that she derives most of her satisfaction from her husband and children. Barb enjoys family biking on the C&O canal, canoeing, reading, and quilting.

"I find it most frustrating trying to find the time to do things I like to do. She would especially like to spend more time relaxing at home."

"It is a beautiful place with part woods and part open fields for sheep to graze," she said.

With the many demands on Barb's time, she said, "Some things have to go. I don't do housecleaning and neither does anyone else in our family."

STREUSEL TOPPED COFFEE CAKE

3 3/8 cups flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sugar
Sift dry ingredients together and add the following ingredients:
3/4 cup butter, cut in with pastry blender
3 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups milk

Beat together and stir into dry ingredients until moist. May add 1/2 to 1 cup raisins. Pour into 9x13 pan. Make topping.

Topping:

3/4 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
4 rounded tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons melted butter
3/8 chopped nuts
Stir together and sprinkle on top of batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

QUESTION — Ruth Pierce, Columbia Cross Roads, would like a recipe for baked limas such as those served at Country Cupboard in Lewisburg.

ANSWER — Thanks to J. Graybill, Mt. Pleasant, MO, who sent jelly recipes using epsom salts, which was requested by a reader.

Jam Or Jelly With Epsom Salts

4 cups crushed fruit or juice
7 cups sugar

1 heaping teaspoon Epsom salts

Boil 2½ minutes after mixture comes to a full rolling boil. Remove from heat. Add Epsom salts. Stir 5 minutes. Let stand 30 minutes. Stir occasionally. Put into hot jars and seal.

ANSWER — A reader wanted recipes using butter-scotch morsels. Thanks to Anita Moyer, Bernville; Miriam Worley, Hummelstown; and Eileen Zerbe, Womelsdorf, for sending recipes.

Butterscotch Cheese Cake Bars

12 ounces butterscotch chips
½ cup butter
8 ounces cream cheese, soften
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1 can condensed milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In medium-sized pan, melt chips and butter. Stir in crumbs and nuts. Press half the mixture in a greased 9x13-inch pan.

In large bowl, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Beat in condensed milk, vanilla, and egg. Mix well. Pour on top of crumbs. Top with remaining crumbs. Bake 25-30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in middle comes out clean. Cool at room temperature and chill before cutting. Store leftovers in refrigerator.

Chocolate Scotcheroots

Cook together until mixture boils in 3-quart saucepan:

1 cup sugar
1 cup light corn syrup

Remove from heat, stir in:

1 cup peanut butter
Mix in 6 cups rice crispy cereal

Press into buttered 13x9-inch pan. Let harden. Melt over hot, not boiling, water:

6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate morsels
6 ounces butterscotch morsels

Stir to blend. Spread over cereal mixture. Chill until top is firm. Cut into bars. Yields: 48 1x2-inch bars.

Seven-Layer Bars

½ cup butter
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1 cup shredded coconut
6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate pieces
6 ounces butterscotch pieces
15-ounce can condensed milk
1 cup chopped nuts

Melt butter in 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Sprinkle crumbs evenly over butter. Sprinkle on coconut, chocolate, and butterscotch pieces.

Pour condensed milk evenly over top. Sprinkle on nuts and press lightly into pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool. Cut into bars.

Butterscotch Spiders

1 cup salted peanuts
2 cups chow mein noodles
12 ounces butterscotch-flavored pieces

Toss peanuts and noodles together in a bowl and set aside. Melt the butterscotch pieces in the top of a double boiler or microwave, stirring occasionally until smooth. Pour this over the peanuts and noodles and toss gently until coated. Drop from a teaspoon onto waxed paper and chill to harden before serving.

ANSWER — Hank and Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wanted a recipe for a spring tonic, which had sulfur and molasses in it. Thanks to Mrs. Willis Shenk, Lititz, for writing that her mother also gave it to the children. It was half a teaspoon sulfur and half a teaspoon molasses. However, Mrs. Shenk writes that sulphur can now only be obtained through a prescription.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted to know how to prevent pumpkin roll from cracking, Sara Piho, East Berlin, writes that the towel used for rolling should be of a firm texture such as a linen towel. Do not let it set rolled too long that it dries out before unrolling and adding the filling. Try placing the cake on waxed paper, generously sprinkled with confectioners' sugar and then rolled.

GARDEN SOUP

1 medium onion, chopped
1 tablespoon butter
3 medium potatoes, peeled and diced
2 medium carrots, peeled and diced

1 medium stalk celery, sliced
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 chicken bouillon cubes
Salt

Dash pepper

In large, heavy kettle, simmer onion in butter.

Add remaining ingredients and 5 cups water. Cover and simmer 40 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Serve or puree in blender and reheat.

HAM, CARROT, POTATO CASSEROLE

2 cups diced potatoes, cooked for 10 minutes
2 cups diced carrots, cooked for 10 minutes

2 cups cooked ham
1 can cream of celery soup
1 cup sharp cheddar cheese, grated

¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon onion
¼ teaspoon pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix together all ingredients in a large bowl and put into a buttered casserole dish. Top with buttered crumbs and bake at 350 degrees for 90 minutes.

Malnutrition Biggest Childhood Dietary Problem

York County Correspondent
LINTHICUM, Md. — Malnutrition, not nutrition, is the biggest dietary problem facing American children.

That was the message Dr. Ronald E. Kleinman shared with more than 100 health and education professionals who attended the February 9 annual meeting of the Dairy and Food Nutrition Council of the Upper Chesapeake Bay, held at the BWI Marriott Hotel.

Dr. Kleinman is associate professor of pediatrics at the Harvard Medical School, Chief of the Pediatric and Nutrition Unit, Massachusetts General Hospital, and Chairman of the Nutrition Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics. He strongly supported milk in childhood diets last fall during a media campaign against milk waged by the Physician's Committee for Responsible Medicine through spokesman Dr.

Benjamin Spock.

According to Dr. Kleinman, even some of the best-known, widely-accepted nutrient recommendations continue to generate controversy. Several he cited include iron fortification of infant formulas, adding iodine to the diet to prevent goiter, and use of vitamin K to prevent bleeding problems in newborns.

Milk, likewise, has come under criticism and been linked by some researchers to diabetes, allergies, colic, and heart disease.

"There is no reason to avoid a food that is a rich source of calcium and other nutrients," advises the Harvard pediatrician.

Dr. Kleinman added that the linking of milk with diabetes and heart disease by the Physicians' Committee for Responsible Medicine was based on two studies. One recommended breast feeding or supplemental formula for infants, but he stressed that the study did not say that babies would be harmed by cow's milk.

"Most infant formulas now are based on cows' milk that is formulated to be more like breast milk," he explained.

The second study was one linking milk albumen with a diabetes trigger, based on research injecting milk protein into mice and rats.

"There is no cause-effect relationship between dairy products and diabetes, no data that cows' milk in the diet causes diabetes," added Dr. Kleinman.

"About two percent of all children do develop allergies," he continued. "Milk is implicated because it's the most prevalent food in the diet. And lactose intolerance is not usually a childhood problem, but develops later in life."

A tie between heart disease and cholesterol remains a controversial issue, Dr. Kleinman noted. Measuring blood cholesterol in children may be worthwhile if it identifies them at possible risk in later years. Genetics, he believes, plays a role and family history must be viewed as a predictor of heart risk.

Dr. Kleinman advised that there are no "good" or "bad" foods and diets should be part of a prudent lifestyle that is varied and which the whole family can eat and enjoy together.

"When we develop national nutrition messages for children," he concluded, "we must remember that an increasing number are at risk for malnutrition, due to poverty and homelessness."

Dr. Ronald Kleinman, left, is welcomed to the Baltimore area Dairy Council meeting by Board president Jesse Burall.

As I write this the snow is falling gently over our meadow and the scene that it creates is beautiful. I've just taken a picture of a bright red cardinal on our old apple tree. The house is quiet except for the loud ticking of the Grandfather's clock and also the hum of the microwave as I thaw meat for dinner.

Yesterday it was different as our oldest daughter was visiting for two days with our youngest grandchild. He is just starting to talk and it keeps us busy trying to translate. He thought a piece of cake with a red candy in the center was a birthday cake for his mother and it took us a while to understand his thoughts. When the 20-month-old got together with his 26-month-old cousin, it was hard for them to share toys. The one spends a lot of time in a day care center while the other is at home and is master of his toys.

With the snow outside, our bright pink cyclamen is a pretty contrast. It has 29 blossoms and my husband won it at an Extension meeting as his birthday was closest to the one announced as winner of the centerpiece. My kalanchoes have all been blooming for weeks. Their orange blossoms are quite attractive. Even an iris-type plant that I have is blooming now with a white and blue flower similar to an orchid.

This will be a good day to play some classical music records as I baste material for a rug. Even though I believe in keeping busy, I'll try and relax a bit and enjoy the snow as we haven't had very much this year.

AGCO ALLIS 6600 SERIES TRACTORS

OPERATOR FRIENDLY

The AGCO Allis 6600 Series row crop tractors are engineered to put you comfortably in control. In addition to a comfortable cab or a platform and ROPS, you get low maintenance, low operating costs and a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty.

- Trouble-free, air- and oil-cooled engine. The 6600 Series tractors are equipped with low-maintenance, 4-cylinder, air- and oil-cooled diesel engines. The 6670 provides 63 PTO hp and the 6680 73 PTO hp, both with 22% torque rise. The 6690 has a turbocharged 81 PTO hp engine that delivers a 28% torque rise, as well as the best fuel economy in its class.

- Many speed choices. The synchropower transmission with a separate synchro-reverser offers 12 forward and 12 reverse speeds, planetary final drive and a self-adjusting, hydraulically-actuated clutch. An optional creeper transmission provides 16 forward and 16 reverse speeds; a dual speed option has 24 forward and 12 reverse and a power Hi-Lo transmission provides 30 forward and 30 reverse speeds. All tractor models are available as either 2WD or AWD.

- PTO power and versatility. The independent PTO operates at 540/1,000 rpm with 6- and 21-spline shafts and has a hydraulically-actuated wet PTO clutch. The Category II/I 3-point hitch has a convenient rear remote control and is equipped with telescopic stabilizers. Optional telescopic lower links are also available.

- Quality performance and comfort. The 6600 Series tractors ride on premium Goodyear® radial tires. They have hydrostatic power steering, a tilt-telescopic steering wheel, hydraulically-actuated wet disc brakes and a mechanically-actuated differential lock. AWD models have four-wheel brakes for 40% better braking and an operator controlled front differential lock for tighter turns. All operated from the comfort of the enclosed cab.

To experience the user-friendliness of the 6600 Series tractors, or any of the "orange" line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon.

God Is Architect In Untamed Wyoming

People who live in Wyoming have a wholesome respect for weather.

In the current National Geographic, Thomas J. Abercrombie writes of frosty morning cattle roundups, demon avalanches — and the story of a Basque sheepherder who nearly died in an October blizzard.

"It was the dogs that saved me," recalled 50-year-old Sebastian Legarretachevarria.

The herder was breaking camp on Crooks Mountain, bringing in 1,700 sheep, when the storm hit. "Everything went white," he said. "I couldn't find my way back to my wagon. It was the only time in my life I ever got lost."

Legarretachevarria spent two days stumbling about in the drifts before breaking through an icy creek up to his waist. Unable to move his legs, he crawled under the shelter of a pine tree.

"For three more days I stayed under that tree, half crazy with cold," he said. "I dreamed about thick steaks and mushroom sauce. Finally, I prayed to God to take me to him."

The sheriff's rescue team found him 15 miles from his wagon, severely injured by frostbite.

Tears welled in Legarretachevarria's eyes as he hugged Pinto, one of two dogs that were with the herder when the disaster struck. "They stayed with me," he told Abercrombie. "We huddled together to keep warm. I wouldn't sell these dogs for a million bucks."

Wyoming, whose main highway has been closed by snow in every month but July and August, is the nation's least populous state. Residents number fewer than half a million. The largest city, capital Cheyenne, is home to 50,000.

"God is still architect here. His cathedral mountains and awesome, endless prairies dwarf all human refinements," Abercrombie writes.

Another October blizzard found Abercrombie on horseback, helping Greg and Barbara Gardner, managers of De Ranch, gather in a herd of Angus and white-faced Hereford cattle from their 6,500-foot-high summer pasture.

Abercrombie peeled two cows of his side of the hill, then pulled up to scan the blinding whiteness. Top hand Charlie Needham found a cow Abercrombie had missed, hidden in the brush, camouflaged by an inch of snow on her back.

"I can hardly see 50 feet," Abercrombie writes. "I scrape hoarfrost off my mustache and rub my hands together. My feet feel frozen to the stirrups. With a crunch of hoofs and the creak of leather, Charlie reins up beside me and spans the snow off his chaps.

"Smell that perfume?" he smiles. "Is there anything sweeter than fresh snow on the sage!" Abercrombie was amazed that Needham was actually enjoying this.

"People say that living in Wyoming gives them a sense of freedom," he writes. "In my winter journey around this untamed state I saw them earn it. Anyone worried that the American character is becoming too homogenized can take heart: The frontier spirit is alive and well."

"I keep reminding myself not to take this scene for granted," said Al Ridgway, who lives near the Wyoming's National Elk Refuge near Grand Teton. Besides the glorious mountain scenery, the state offers some of the greatest skiing in the world.

The name Wyoming comes from a Delaware Indian word, first given to Pennsylvania's Wyoming Valley. It means "big river flats," and it suits this state, which straddles the Continental Divide with a series of dry basin floors.

"Here, where the sky is half a man's world, you can take true measure of yourself and have the time to do so," Abercrombie writes.

Wyoming was nicknamed the Equality State for its progressive treatment of women. Most notably, in 1869 the Wyoming Territorial Legislature became the first governing body in the world to grant women the right to vote and to hold public office.

Wyoming now leads the country in coal production. Half of its tax revenue flows from more than 13,000 oil and gas wells. Natural-gas wellheads and pipeline stations dot the sagebrush in the state's center. People have hit gas just drilling water wells. Some can light a blue flame at their kitchen faucet.

A boom-and-bust history has peppered Wyoming with abandoned settlements. On a two-lane highway heading toward the Nebraska border, a sign welcomes passers-through to Lost Springs, population nine.

Most of the state's 5 million annual visitors head for the north-west corner to Yellowstone and Grand Teton national parks and to Jackson Hole.

"Ringed by mountains, the Western-chic town of Jackson sits on the southern edge of the valley called Jackson Hole," Abercrombie writes. On a busy summer day, 60,000 tourists pack its boutiques, restaurants, art galleries and ski shops.

Skiers cause the town's winter gridlock. At the top of Rendezvous Mountain, some 400 inches of snowfall makes for good powder on the longest vertical run in the United States, 4,139 feet.

Wyoming sheep rancher Bob Britain applies disposable diapers to his roommates at his flock's winter range near Muddy Creek. During an eight-day drive to reach the range, 20 ewes died while lambing, forcing Britain to shelter the orphans in his trailer. "They stank," he says of the diapers, "but not as bad as a baby's."

Become An Entomologist

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Are you fascinated by creepy-crawly things? Do you like watching bugs? Can you hold an insect in your hand without flinching or screaming?

If so, you may have the makings of an entomologist. An entomologist is a person who studies insects.

Why would anyone want to study insects? The answer is really quite simple: because it's fun and it's important.

Insects are amazing animals for many reasons. There are more kinds of insects (animals with six legs) than all the rest of the plants and animals in the world put together. There are as many as 30 million different kinds! The smallest insects are so small that you must use a magnifying glass to see them. They have many of the same kind of body organs we have: a heart, brain, muscles, and some have thousands of eyes. They live nearly everywhere—woods, deserts, and mountaintops. Insects can be pests because they infect us with diseases and eat our food. Because there are so many kinds of insects that do so many different things, there are many different kinds of entomologists. There are entomologists called taxonomists who name insects and study where they live, and those who learn how insects behave, how they grow, and what diseases they have. Medical entomologists study how insects carry diseases that affect people and animals. Other entomologists study how to protect our homes, crops and food from hungry insects, or learn how insects can be controlled in ways that do not hurt the environment. Still others study bees and how they pollinate crops to provide us with food and honey.

What do you have to do to become an entomologist? For some people, nothing. Many people collect insects as a hobby. If you want to make your living as an entomologist, however, you need to learn a lot about biology, chemistry, and math in grade school, high school and college. That seems like a lot, but that will give you the best chance to study and learn about those amazing, six-legged animals we call insects.

Dairy Promotion Showcased At ADADC

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, February 27, 1993-B11

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Approximately two hundred dairy producers from across the region attended the 33rd American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) annual meeting to find out how ADADC's game plan scored points for dairy products in the marketplace. The meeting was held on Tuesday, February 16, at the Sheraton Inn, Syracuse, New York. The theme for the meeting was "ADADC: Your Winning Team."

The annual meeting began with a business meeting of the board of directors followed by a special awards luncheon, where several dairy industry leaders were recognized for their commitment to dairy promotion. Lyle Newcomb of the New York State Department of Agriculture received the Service to Dairying Award for his contributions to dairy promotion through service on the New York State Milk Advisory Board. The award is given each year to an outstanding person in the dairy industry.

The Leo Briggs Memorial Scholarship of $500 was awarded to Stacy Guyton in recognition of her leadership in dairy promotion, and to help further her studies in the field of dairy communications. Several directors on ADADC's board were also recognized for their contributions to dairy promotion.

"ADADC: Your Winning Team," a dynamic and entertaining review of ADADC's Promotion programs, followed the awards luncheon. The program showcased 1992 activities in nutrition education, promotion and public relations in a sportscast format. The review showed how ADADC "teams" up to "win" dairy sales.

The presentations highlighted program results as ADADC's "score" in the marketplace. For example, the nutrition education department reported a 6% increase in school breakfast participation during the "Breakfast in School is Cool" promotion. In addition, staff placements of Healthy Choices: Balanced Meals curriculum reached 47% of all second grade teachers in 1992.

The consumer promotions department reported an additional 323,454 pounds of cheese were sold during the 1992 spring cheese promotion. As a direct result of working with Kraft cheese supervisors, an additional 632,087 pounds of cheese were sold during the fall cheese campaign. Cheese displays were built in 900 stores as part of the fall promotion. ADADC's computer program, Space Management, made headway in increasing shelf space for dairy products at the retail level.

The communications department totaled $550,000 in advertising equivalence for its public relations efforts throughout the year, which included aggressive and proactive media campaigns. Counter attacks to anti-dairy messages in the popular press helped calm negative publicity.

Gregory D. Miller, Ph.D., director of National Dairy Council's Nutrition Research/Technical Services, covered national program areas in dairy nutrition, and how the relationship between science and health policy don't always mesh.

Mike Leonhardt from ADADC's advertising agency, D'Arcy, Masius, Benton & Bowles, completed the afternoon session by enlightening the audience with brand new fluid milk commercials which debuted on television and radio on February 15. The ads build on the theme, "Milk, It Does a Body Good," and show how milk's nutritional benefits help adults of all ages look and feel their best.

Following the meeting, the 30th Anniversary New York State Dairy Princess Pageant activities in the evening culminated with the coronation of the 1993 New York State Dairy Princess.

Elyssa Huribut, nutrition education specialist, and Randy Scroger, dairy marketing specialist, serve as sports broadcasters at the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's annual meeting in Syracuse.

Newcomb Receives Service To Dairying Award

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Lyle Newcomb, director of the Division of Dairy Industry Services and Producer Security with the New York State Department of Agriculture, was presented the Service to Dairying Award at the 33rd annual meeting of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) on February 16 at the Sheraton Inn, Syracuse, New York. The award is given each year to an outstanding person in the dairy industry in recognition of their commitment to dairy promotion.

After Newcomb received his Master's Degree in Agricultural Economics from Cornell University, he joined the Department of Agriculture and Markets in 1957, first working as a Research Analyst in the Division of Statistics. In 1973, he accepted a promotion in the Division of Milk Control and Division of Dairy Industry Services. Newcomb then served as Milk Marketing Specialist in the latter division.

Newcomb has been involved with the New York State Dairy Promotion Order from its beginnings. He conducted the referendum that led to the creation of the first New York State Milk Promotion Advisory Board. On July 26, 1984, he was elected Secretary of the fifth State Milk Promotion Board - a position he has continued to hold to the present.

Lyle Newcomb, director of the Division of Dairy Industry Services and Producer Security, receives the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. Service to Dairying Award from Raymond Johnson, president of ADADC.

Expert Tells How To Raise Prize-Winning Violets

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Snow covers the ground, but flowers are blooming at Melody Hartman's home in Columbia.

Melody grows hundreds of African Violets, which she exhibits in places as far away as New England. The shop in her home is called Violet Rainbow II.

Recently, Melody shared her secrets on raising prize-winning African Violets with members of the Lebanon Flower Club.

"Anyone can grow African Violets," Melody said. The secret is bright light.

Although Melody grows her flowers under fluorescent lights, she said that any window with a strong bright light is a good place for violets. She recommends windows that face the East.

"The more light, the more blooms," she said. But she cautioned that too much light may also cause sunburn.

Melody keeps the lights on her violets for 12 to 14 hours daily. The light fixtures are only 8 to 10 inches from the top of the plants.

African violets are available in many varieties and sizes in standard and trailing shapes. Although African violets are mostly thought of as coming in shades of purple, the blooms come in many different colors with the latest release in yellow. Leaves also vary in colors of green, white, pink, or magenta.

Variegated leaves need more light than other kinds of violets.

Care for violets

• Water only when the top of the soil feels dry to touch, about once a week. Even if a violet sets several months without water, it will perk up if watered.

• Use room temperature or lukewarm water. You can water from the top or the bottom of the plant, but do not get water on the center leaves.

• If you accidentally spill water on the center leaves, blot dry the leaves will decay or rot.

• If you water from the bottom, dump off excess water as violets don't like wet feet.

• If leaves become dusty, wash them with warm water, but let the leaves dry before putting the plant back in the light.

Melody said that she avoids using African violet potting soil that is sold in grocery stores. "Roots like to breathe," she said. She uses a one-to-one ratio of peat moss and perlite.

"Violets prefer lightly compact soil so do not press the ground firmly or the roots will not have room to breathe," she said.

Starting new plants

Suckers, which grow aside the plant can be used to start new plants. The suckers should have a single crown. To start, cut into the soil to keep the sucker intact. Pot the sucker, water, and place in light.

Another method to start new violets is to take a leaf from a mature plant. Pick a leaf from the middle of the mature plant as the leaf should not be too old or too young. Leave about a one-inch stem, and cut at an angle. Start the leaf in soil and water lightly. In 8 to 10 weeks, little starts come out of the ground surrounding the leaf.

When there are three to 15 leaves, pull root ball out of pot, remove parent leaf and tear plant apart. Leave a little root on each leaf, and you can pot each one. The plants will bloom about three months later.

The pot size should be about one third of the leaf span of the plant. It is good to keep the plants pot bound.

Label starts so you know what variety of violet is in the pot.

Occasionally, violets get necks. To rejuvenate the plant, put it out of the pot. Cut it apart at the root ball, sink back into pot and fill with soil around the neck. The neck will root and rejuvenate.

Tips for growing show violets

• Grow under fluorescent lights as more control is possible.

• Select variety that is good for show.

• Disbud. Let bloom once to make sure it is blooming a true color then disbud so that beautiful big leaves develop.

• Eight to ten weeks before show, remove buds, blossoms, and suckers.

• Temperatures can affect time of budding. If the blooms are coming too early, lower the temperatures. Raise the temperatures to encourage earlier blooming.

• Before show, remove spent blossoms, stubs, and clean leaves.

The National Violet Convention will be held April 19-24 at the Lancaster Host Farm, Lincoln Highway. More details will be published.

Takes Best Of Show

CHICAGO, ILL. — The "Beef. It's What's For Dinner" advertising campaign and "Beef Industry Launches New Ad Campaign" summer retail promotion were each named "Best of Show" in regional competition sponsored by the National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA).

Twelve National Live Stock and Meat Board-managed programs were recognized in NAMA regional competitions in Chicago (Chicago chapter), Indianapolis (Mid-American) and San Francisco (West). There are a total of 29 NAMA chapters nationwide.

"The NAMA awards competition recognizes the best that agriculture has to offer in an ever-changing and competitive marketing environment," says Robert N. Rebholtz, an Idaho lamb and beef producer and chairman of the Meat Board. "It's a pleasure to see that the industry's finest have chosen our programs as examples of leading marketing tools."

The Chain Saws For People Who Want To Act Like Lumberjacks, Not Work Like Them.

If you know a little about the timber business, you know that Stihl chain saws have been used by professional woodcutters for over sixty years

So maybe you think Stihl equipment is "too good" for a suburbanite or farmer or anyone else who needs to cut wood on an occasional basis

Well, we're happy to tell you that Stihl makes a whole series of chain saws with your needs in mind

But don't confuse

The Stihl 021 Superb power to weight ratio isolated carburetor electronic ignition 021 - $259.95 14"

The Stihl 023 All the features of the 021 plus 30% more power 023 - $294.95 16"

The Stihl 025 More powerful than the 023 plus convenient side chain tensioner 025 - $319.95 16"

The Stihl 026 Designed for professional use on the demanding weekend woodcutter 026 - $429.95 16"

them with discount-store chain saws

All Stihl saws are designed for performance, ease of handling and starting, and durability

Now, about the 026 shown at the bottom we'll admit we sell this saw to professional woodcutters But it's also bought by people who simply put a lot of hours on a saw every year

And by the way, when were you ever unhappy because you bought a product that was too good?

For The Part Of You That Promised You'd Never Compromise.

SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1993

At 12:00 Noon

Located just south of Red Lion in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pa.

Directions: From Red Lion follow Rt.
24 to Pleasant View Rd. T.L. Property on the left watch for signs.

Here is an excellent opportunity to purchase a historic farm that has 80 tillable acres that are gently rolling, in full cultivation with good conservation practices. A quiet valley has open land with a spring fed stream. (Good for pasture land) some woodland. This farm has not had animals for years but would be a great place for animals of any type.

Historical Note!

This home is in need of work but this huge structure sits by the stream and was known as the Sechrist Mill. It operated through the 1800s by water power grinding grains for local residents. The water wheel is no longer there but the basic structure is the same. In approximately 1900 it was converted to a residence and the water wheel ceased operating. The barn is a large structure in average condition with many possibilities. New roof last year.
(nice barn) Another Historic Note: Neighbors say that years ago gold found on the farm prompted a mining attempt. Mining costs outweighed profits it is told and now the area is farmed over. Owners & auctioneers make no warranties to such claims and are printed for historical interest only.

If you are interested in a good agricultural farm, historical site or just a good sound investment of over 100 acres here is your opportunity. Call for details.

Poultry Science Club Continues Growth

Shannon Burasco, Southeastern Poultry Science Club, left, presents the Club of the Year Award to Andrew Long, president, Penn State Poultry Science Club.

Andrew D. Long
President

Penn State Poultry Science Club

The Poultry Science Club is a very active, enjoyable, and exciting club at Penn State University. The 1992 year started off with the Pennsylvania Farm Show where the club helped serve poultry products as a fund raiser for the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation. This activity has been very helpful for the Federation and exposes the club to members of the Pennsylvania poultry industry.

January also holds an annual highlight in our activity schedule with our attendance at the meeting of the Southeastern Poultry Science Club at the International Poultry Exposition. We always enjoy the opportunity to meet other students in the same field as well as taking in all the show floor has to offer. No one in the club can ever say they didn't enjoy themselves in Atlanta.

In February we had our annual Poultry Stanley Cup hockey games in which we challenged the Block and Bridle Club to a friendly game or two of ice hockey. The stage was once again set on our club advisor's pond for the traditional physical and mental domination of our opponents. Also in February, the club attended the Animal Products Spectacular at the local mall. For our display we prepared smoked turkey breast in order to allow the mall shoppers to sample the delectability of further processed turkey products. The turkey was an enormous hit and received numerous compliments.

In March our spring fund raiser was top priority as the club dressed, processed, and smoked turkeys for our Easter Smoked Turkey Sale. Club members sold the birds to faculty, staff, friends, and to individuals from the Product Spectacular that had expressed interest in the product.

Our annual scholarship and awards banquet was held at the end of the spring semester at the prestigious Nittany Lion Inn. At our banquet we recognized individuals who had contributed and excelled during the previous year. Recognition was given to the officers, the judging team, and to faculty who supported the club's activities. Awards were also given for academic excellence and for being the most active club member. It's a great wrap-up to the year and a good send-off for our members heading off to internships for the summer.

After a short summer away from University Park, we all returned a week early for the fall semester to help run a concession stand at Ag Progress Days. The stand helped to raise money for the Student Council of the College of Agricultural Sciences. At our first meeting of the fall semester, club members who participated in internships gave presentations about their summer experiences.

October started with some club members traveling to Lancaster for the Northeast Poultry Trade show. It was a great opportunity for members to meet and talk with employers from the northeast part of the United States. October 18 brought with it the annual Poultry Science Department fall picnic. The club was responsible for preparing a first class meal of bar-b-que'd chicken with all the fix'ns for alumni, faculty, and staff of the department.

November began with Ag Career Days at the University. The club participated by setting up a display about club and the poultry industry presenting the opportunities in both. This day also provided a great occasion for students

4-H HAPPENINGS

ROUGH RIDERS 4-H

The February meeting of the Rough Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club was held at Kroener's on February 4.

At this meeting, each committee reported on their activities in the month of January. Tina Henry and Jessica Althouse did a game on tying safety knots for the club.

Rough Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club February Members of the Month are Jessica Althouse, left, and Becky Aukamp, right.

Becky Preiss from the Boots and Saddles 4-H Club made a presentation on grooming and showmanship.

Club members of the month were Jessica Althouse and Becky Aukamp.

Jessica, age 14, has been in 4-H for three years, serving as news reporter for 1993. This year, Sancy is her project horse. Sancy is an 11-year-old Quarter Horse mare. Together they like to trail ride and show.

Becky, age 15, has been in 4-H for five years. She is in her second year as club treasurer. Anthony's Way, a one-half Morgan Quarter Horse Arabian, is her project horse. Together, they like to trail ride but especially like to jump.

The club's next meeting will be held on Thursday, March 4, at 7 p.m. at Kroener's.

For more information, call John Henry, club Leader, at (717) 284-2046.

4-H Expo Comes To Deptford Mall

On February 27, Gloucester County 4-H kicks off a weekend of fun for the entire family at Deptford Mall.

The annual event will be bigger and better for everyone as its theme, "4-H Helps People Grow," suggests.

Would You Want To Live Next Door To Yourself?

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As housing and business developments crop up in rural areas, these locations change. New development brings benefits to rural areas—better support services, increased economic activity and a broader tax base—but can also bring conflicts between farmers and their new neighbors.

People on both sides of the pasture fence can avoid or lessen conflicts by focusing more attention on being a good neighbor, says a specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"When we don't consider our neighbors' needs, or when we disagree over whose needs should take precedence, a minor dispute can easily escalate into a matter for the courts or government to resolve," says Dr. Robert Graves, professor of agricultural engineering. "When that happens, everyone involved usually loses."

Some farmers may feel that new, non-farm residents are intruding on their turf. A neighbor's complaint may seem like an attempt to limit a farmer's ability to make a living.

"With this attitude, it's easy to forget that our neighbors really are affected by our actions," Graves says. "Agriculture, by its very nature, can affect people living both near and far from the farm. Your neighbors deserve your care, concern and consideration just as you deserve theirs."

Several farm practices can affect non-farm neighbors. Many conflicts arise over manure management. "Manure and mud tracked on the road by tires or spilled from manure spreaders affects everyone who drives on it," Graves says. "Odors from manure storages and spreaders can affect people for miles when the weather's right."

"Manure and soil that runs into ditches, streams, lakes and rivers can affect the safety of your neighbors' drinking water as well as your own. Excess nutrients in ground water and lake bottoms could affect neighbors who haven't even been born yet. Unguarded, open manure storage areas and equipment are a hazard to your family as well as workers, visitors and neighbors."

How can farmers be better neighbors? "Look at your operation and identify practices that could be changed," Graves suggests. "You can't do it overnight, but you can get started tomorrow. Determine what needs to be done, rank the needs in order of importance, set your goals and periodically measure how well you're meeting them. Then review your plan regularly."

If you want to reduce the impact of your manure handling on neighbors, begin by listening to their comments and trying to understand their concerns. "If possible, change some manure management methods to improve their quality of life," Graves says. "Measure your progress by talking regularly with your neighbors."

If you absolutely can't change your manure handling practices, at least tell your neighbors why," Graves says. "They may be more willing to accept an odor or other inconvenience if they know it's for a good reason."

Many disputes and problems that involve regulators or end up in court could be resolved if all parties tried to be more neighborly. "There's a simple question you should ask before you start to get angry about a dispute with a neighbor," Graves says. "How would you like to live next to yourself?"

Poultry Science

to make industry contacts for internships and career opportunities. The following week the Ag Hill Olympics were held giving us all a needed study break. The Olympics are sponsored by the clubs in the college with each participating organization hosting an event and fielding teams to compete in the events for some friendly inter-club competition. Our classical egg putting event left many an aspiring golfer questioning their putting skills.

November brought about the traditional Thanksgiving Turkey Sale. We processed and sold over 200 turkeys to repeat customers who relish this annual treat. The fund raising events held throughout the year are used to fund member jackets, the scholarship banquet, the southeastern trip to Atlanta, and are used to supplement trips for the judging team.

The club holds meetings the first and third week of each month during the school year with each meeting typically including normal business activities and a guest speaker. Some of our guest speakers for the past year included representatives from Perdue Farms, Townson Inc., Wenger Feeds, Empire Kosher, Round Hill Food, and Kreamer Feeds.

In addition, the club fields intermural teams in coed softball, volleyball, and football. Our club strives to combine the best of recreation and academics to provide an enjoyable and exciting club experience.

Tend-R-Leen: A Profitable Way To Feed Beef Cattle.

The Tend-R-Leen program is simple and convenient with no complicated formulas. Cattle eat only whole shelled corn, supplemented with the Tend-R-Leen formula and mineral.

The Tend-R-Leen program eliminates roughage feeding, expensive storage and processing. There is no grinding; less equipment and labor are needed. And there's up to 50% less manure produced.

The Tend-R-Leen program gets animals to market weight in 12 months or less.

Case IH 1600 Series Axial-Flow Combines

TO HARVEST BETTER, YOU HAVE TO DO THREE THINGS BETTER.

CHOOSE THE MODEL SIZED TO YOUR ACREAGE.

- 1620: A 124-hp unit, with 125-bushel tank, it's an efficient performer for small to moderate acreages.
- 1640: Rated at 150 hp, carrying a 145-bushel tank, it performs on the upper edge of its mid-sized rating.
- 1660: Its 180-hp rating and 180-bushel grain tank let it perform with any combine in its size.
- 1680: At 225 hp, equipped with a 210-bushel grain tank, it's suited to the biggest acreages anywhere.

Your crop is your paycheck. Harvest it better and you get more return on the time, money and hard work invested in it.

Case IH 1600 Series Combines do just that... in the three ways that count most. One, they harvest faster. They've got the horsepower to move them through the field at top speeds. And their big threshing, separating and grain-conveying capacities easily handle high-yielding crops.

Two, they deliver more high-quality grain. The cage's large separating area distributes material more evenly to the sieves, increasing their efficiency. A variable-speed advanced-design cleaning fan finishes the thorough cleaning process for tops in clean high-quality grain.

Three, they're easier on your crops. With Axial-Flow, the single large rotor threshes your grain, gently...unlike the single, severe threshing action of conventional combines that damages kernels. So gentle, thorough Axial-Flow action means less cracked corn and less dockage at the elevator.

Result: a bigger paycheck.

BIOSECURITY: A KEY TO POULTRY HEALTH

John H. Schwartz, Ph.D.
Lancaster County
Extension Director

The recent avian influenza cases remind us that diseases are always present in the environment. As we increase the number of birds on a farm, the importance of biosecurity becomes more important.

Biosecurity is a term that includes all of the measures that should be taken to prevent the spread of disease organisms, insects, and rodents. To implement a biosecurity program, you must first know how disease organisms may spread.

These organisms readily survive in dust particles, manure, rodents, insects, feathers, dead birds, and eggs. They travel place to place by chicken crates, egg filler flats, trucks, equipment, and people.

Disease organisms may be found on people's hands, in their hair, on clothing, and on shoes. The goal of biosecurity is to prevent bringing germs to poultry and to prevent bringing poultry to germs.

Some measures you should insist on being followed are:

- Do not visit other poultry farms unless it is absolutely important.

- Never visit a backyard flock.
- Never attend or visit a live bird market or auction.

- Do not allow visitors to your poultry farm, including friends and relatives.

- Do not enter or allow anyone to enter your poultry house or egg room unless wearing clean and sanitized coveralls and boots. Change clothing when you leave the poultry house.

- Do not loan or borrow equipment from any other farm unless it is thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

- Restrict movement of all vehicles entering and leaving your farm. Have vehicles park outside the premises at a clean up area whenever possible.

- Bring onto the farm only clean and disinfected crates, egg cartons, etc. Reject anything that is not clean.

- Always take a shower and wash hair when arriving home from a meeting with other poultry farmers (including church and eating places).

- Keep a pair of boots for use in only your poultry house. Storing them in a rubber garbage can with a lid will help to keep them clean.

- Clean and disinfect boots before entering and leaving the poultry house.

- Change foot baths at least daily or more often if subject to a lot of dirt and manure.

- Keep all doors to your poultry houses locked at all times.
- Avoid contact with wild birds and waterfowl.

Also, place new birds in a clean house.

By doing a thorough job of cleaning and disinfecting, you are reducing the disease pressure on the birds.

Develop and maintain an effective rodent and insect control program. Make sure vaccinations are being properly administered and done on time. Maintain excellent air quality and move as much air as possible through the poultry house.

Try to schedule major repairs when your houses are empty. Make sure your service people, including electricians, pest control operators, and other repair people, are practicing biosecurity. Records show a good biosecurity system results in improved flock performance.

In addition, a good biosecurity program could prevent you the headaches and costs of a disease outbreak, quarantine, and resulting downtime and extra cleanup costs.

The success of any biosecurity program depends on the farmer and how strictly he enforces it. Word travels fast within the poultry community on who has a very strict biosecurity program.

Experience has shown me that the poultry farmers who demand biosecurity be followed will have everyone following it. However, never make an exception. Once this is done you have weakened your biosecurity program.

The health of your birds depends on you. Do everything you can to keep the germs away from your birds and your birds away from germs.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "The quality of a person's life is in direct proportion to their commitment to excellence."

Corn Belt Researchers Examine Benefits Of Revised Label

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Leading corn production researchers and state extension specialists from a dozen major corn-producing states recently met in Chicago to review significant new label changes for Beacon® corn herbicide.

"Now corn growers can control key broadleaf weeds using a new special broadleaf rate (0.38 ounces per acre) of Beacon," said Dr. Chuck Kupatt, Ciba-Geigy researcher responsible for Beacon. "For most of the Corn Belt, that's a significant benefit."

The label changes were approved by the Environmental Protection Agency in December 1992. Weeds controlled at the special broadleaf rate include cocklebur, common and giant ragweeds, eastern black nightshade, jimsonweed, Pennsylvania smartweed, redroot pigweed, and sunflowers.

"This makes Beacon an economical option for post-emergence broadleaf control in corn," said Product Manager John Mitchell. "Plus, at the broadleaf rate, growers still get the bonus of shattercane, sorghum-alum, and seedling johnsongrass suppression. These are troublesome grasses in some areas."

In addition, a split application is now recommended for maintenance control of shattercane or seedling johnsongrass where weed pressure has been reduced from the use of Beacon in previous years.

"We've proven superior soil activity and residual," Kupatt said. "We also have shown that a Beacon application results in reduced populations of problem grasses the following year."

By initially applying a two-thirds rate, growers still have the option to apply a second one-third rate for later grass flushes.

At the full 0.76-ounce-per-acre rate, Beacon still is labeled to control more than 30 broadleaves, plus grass problems. New grasses added to the Beacon label include annual ryegrass and yellow nutsedge.

"Many growers will still use Beacon primarily for grass control," Mitchell said. "Others have found the Beacon 'Broadleaf Blast' to be the biggest benefit to them. It's a corn herbicide that fits into almost any corn grower's program."

The label changes were announced at a special meeting held in conjunction with the North Central Weed Science Society's annual meeting in Chicago. More than 50 guests attended the Ciba-Geigy program.

Pork Produce Research Focuses On Technology

CHICAGO, Ill. — Making the best even better — that's the objective of the product technology subcommittee of the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

To reach that goal, producer members of the subcommittee recently approved six research projects for their 1993 checkoff investment.

"The pork industry has made a lot of progress in further improving its product for consumers," said Kent Gansebor, Nebraska pork producer and chairman of the pork product research subcommittee. "Now, we can take those improvements a step further with these checkoff-funded research projects."

The projects, totalling nearly $150,000, will focus on the areas of food safety, pork product quality and innovative technology.

• Project 1: In the area of food safety, scientists at Purdue University will use technology that originated in the medical field to simultaneously determine the composition of ground pork while detecting any foreign materials in raw ground pork samples. The Purdue researchers are optimistic that magnetic resonance imaging technology can be transferred to in-line monitoring in actual processing plant facilities.

Two projects in pork quality research will attempt to investigate methods to detect and reduce the incidence of pale, soft and exudative (PSE) pork.

• Project 2: Researchers at Purdue University will evaluate existing electromagnetic methods for detecting structural changes, such as PSE, in pork muscle. The researchers say that if PSE can be detected early in carcass processing procedures, product sorting and feedback to the producers can help control or even eliminate the quality problem.

• Project 3: At Texas Tech University, scientists will use emerging technology to identify stressed hogs immediately prior to slaughter. If the method can determine potential PSE carcasses, then the carcasses can be sorted for different chilling conditions, therefore reducing variations in quality attributes.

• Project 4: Researchers at Louisiana State University will investigate the effects of a dietary supplement on the composition and sensory qualities of pork products. The researchers believe that alternative methods to increase the percentage of lean pork in the carcass should be studied in order to efficiently create products to meet consumer demand.

• Projects 5 and 6: Two projects in the area of innovative technology will attempt to add value to the entire pork carcass by utilizing lower-value raw materials. Investigators with the Fats & Protein Research Foundation will produce modified bio-diesel fuel from pork fat. The researchers will test the fuel under on-road conditions, and then develop economic data on production and operating costs.

At the University of Nebraska, researchers will evaluate the texture, palatability and color of restructured pork steaks made with raw materials from processing equipment using new technologies. The scientists believe that this research provides an opportunity to add value to less desirable pork trimmings.

Delmarva Safety Expo Set

NEWARK, Del. — Intensive training workshops on first aid, personal protective equipment, CPR certification, and an Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) update will be featured on the first day of the annual Delmarva Safety Seminar and Exposition.

The event will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, March 16 and 17, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, Md. The event is sponsored by the Delmar-va Safety Association in cooperation with the cooperative extension systems of the universities of Delaware and Maryland, and area businesses.

The second day of the meeting will include workshops on back injuries, safety standards and controls, forklift safety, safety motivation, noise reduction, and managing safety committees. In addition, demonstrations and the expo are scheduled on the final day. Exhibitors include safety equipment companies, an OSHA consultation booth, health monitoring, and other special-interest exhibits.

The deadline for registration is March 10. Fees are $25 for the intensive workshops on March 16 and $15 for the seminars and exposition on March 17.

For further information or a registration packet, contact Ron Jester, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension safety specialist, (302) 856-7303.

Ziggity Systems Introduces Improved Pressure Regulators

MIDDLEBURY, Ind. — Ziggity Systems, Inc. has introduced a new line of improved pressure regulators for poultry watering systems.

The new regulators replace the company's 28-product regulator line and have become standard watering-system components.

According to Eldon Hostetler, founder and president of Ziggity, the new regulator line has a built-in automatic water-line flush capability. It will cost approximately 20 percent less than current regulators with water-line flush attachments.

Engineered to simplify watering system installation and maintenance, the new regulators eliminate the current four-hose connection configuration. In addition to making installation easier by eliminating time-consuming hose connections, Hostetler said the new regulators will also considerably reduce the potential of hose-connection leakage.

A more efficient watering design, the new Ziggity regulators feature a through-flush attachment which replaces the previous method of passing water around the regulator.

An easily turned ball-valve directs water at incoming-line pressure through a 1/2-inch-diameter opening in the top of the regulator down to the water line with a minimum of water-pressure loss.

Designed for cage-layer and floor-watering systems, the new regulators can be used as replacements on the company's 1/4-inch or Big Ace Systems, or to upgrade

Local Auctioneer Named Auctioneer Of Year

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Nominated and chosen by his peers, Kenneth A. Geyer, of southeastern Pennsylvania, has been named Auctioneer of the Year.

Geyer received this award at the Pennsylvania Auctioneers Association (PAA) annual convention held here.

Given to an auctioneer who has contributed his expertise and talents to the auction profession, this award is one of the highest distinctions recognized by the PAA. The nominees are judged on their honesty, ethical standards, and willingness to share ideas with fellow auctioneers.

Of his many contributions, most notably is Geyer's development of the Official Code of Professional Ethics adopted by the PAA. This document explicitly states the commitment each auctioneer makes to his customers, his peers, and to the public at large. Stressing the importance of integrity and fair dealings, the ethics also promote respect and courtesy toward other professionals in the industry.

In addition, Geyer has served as trainer and mentor to many young auctioneers throughout the state. As one of the senior auctioneers at Manheim Auctions, a nationwide automobile wholesale firm, Geyer selects talented auctioneers throughout the state and counsels them on the art of automobile sales.

As president of Kenneth A. Geyer Auction Co., Inc., Plymouth Meeting, Ken employs a team of auctioneers and auction staff who are solely dedicated to selling real estate at auction. Selling all types of real estate, the firm settlement procedures, and professional representation.

Geyer himself has conducted more than 10,000 auctions of both real and personal property. He is a seventh generation auctioneer professional and has obtained one of the highest percentage sold rates in the industry.

Reich Receives Performance Award

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Robert T. Reich, President and CEO of Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA, received the Exceptional Performance Award given by Gene Swackhammer, president of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore.

This special non-cash award is given to recognize those employees whose exceptional skills and outstanding performance have made Farm Credit the lender of choice to American agriculture. Reich was honored for significant achievement in business development and member service, significant contributions toward accomplishment of district goals and objectives, and outstanding community service. The award consists of an all expense-paid trip for Reich and his spouse, Virginia, to Cancun, Mexico.

Reich was recently appointed by Governor Casey to serve on the Pennsylvania Rural Development Council. He was selected by the Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture to serve as a credit advisor to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. He also serves as an advisory member to the College of Agriculture at Penn State University and is an active member of the Susquehanna Valley Chamber of Commerce.

This past fall, as a result of exemplary leadership, Reich received the first Hal F. Doran Cooperative Business Education Award.

AGCO, Varsity Venture Completes Acquisition

ATLANTA, Ga. — Robert J. Ratliff, president and chief executive officer of AGCO Corporation (NASDAQ-AGCO), said the final phase of the company's investment in the previously announced AGCO-Varity (NYSE-VAT) joint venture in Agricredit Acceptance Corporation has been completed.

AGCO's investment of approximately $18.8 million for its 50 percent interest in Agricredit, a diversified equipment finance company, was arranged through its revolving credit facility with ITT Commercial Finance.

The Agricredit joint venture is part of an arrangement that began with the appointment of AGCO Corporation as the exclusive distributor of farm equipment in North America for Massey Ferguson, a unit of Varsity. The total amount of the deal, including the acquisition of substantially all of the net assets of Massey Ferguson's North American operations, was $113.6 million.

Ratliff said AGCO's appointment as the exclusive distributor of farm equipment in North America for Massey Ferguson, along with the joint venture between AGCO and Varsity to acquire substantially all of the net assets of Agricredit, provides AGCO with the opportunity to add a major product line and equipment finance company to the corporation, further strengthen its distribution network, and continue to position AGCO for future growth in North America.

DeSautell Promoted To Manager

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Cliff DeSautell has been promoted to manager of B & D Acres, Tyrone, a 600-sow ProGenetics multiplier farm specializing in the production of Better Built Gilts.

To ensure efficient and profitable production, DeSautell will oversee the daily operations of the unit and assist in breeding, farrowing, and health control.

A 1977 graduate of Slaton High School, Texas, DeSautell was actively involved with Future Farmers of America and several judging teams. He earned a Lone Star Farmer Degree and was ranked fourth in dairy cattle judging. He was also classified as one of the top 15 bull riders in Texas. Following high school, he attended

Cliff DeSautell

DeSautell started farming with his grandfather in 1976 and purchased the farm in 1980. He grew a wide variety of crops, including cotton, grain, sunflowers, soybean, wheat, barley, alfalfa, rye, and oats. After losing his rented land to the Conversation Reserve Program, he custom farmed and raised beef cows for four years.

In 1989, DeSautell purchased more land, but an early frost and a drought caused him to lose faith in the Texas soil. He packed his bags and headed to Pennsylvania.

He joined B & D Acres as farrowing manager in August 1992. After only three months of work, he was promoted to assistant manager and recently moved into the top management position.

proving its flexibility.

"Commercial breeders are finding the system a great tool for tracking weights, calving information, and vet treatments," said Lyle Warrington, president of the software firm. "Many are using the cow/calf software to print worksheets that ask for just the information they need. Others are taking portable computers right out to the field for on-site data entry."

For registered breeders, the Cow/Calf 5.0 Production System tracks expected progeny differences (EPDs) along with EPD accuracy values, and virtually all other breed association-required information, said Warrington. "Breeders appreciate having the performance analysis information right at their fingertips."

The new system features a built-in report writer that offers unlimited potential for producing unique reports, including inventory, herd analysis, pedigree, and numerous bull, cow, and calf reports.

"Many breeders find the detailed reports make great sales sheets!" said Warrington. "All reports let the user select the animals, select the report criteria, and decide how the information is to be sorted."

The cow/calf production system maintains performance, registration, breeding, and veterinary information for an entire herd, with separate files for bulls, cows, and calves. Herds can be separated into groups, with each group representing a different breed, herd location, owner, and other factors. The system also maintains multiple herds.

Of particular interest to Charolais and Beefmaster breeders is a special option (a separately priced add-on program) that prints cattle registration information directly onto pin feed forms available from their associations. Herd owners will soon be able to purchase special options that will let them load breed association files, including EPDs and indexes, directly to the system and also to import ASCII input files directly from scales. The cow/calf system interfaces with TruTest™ scales, and additional ASCII interfaces are being added.

A procedure for handling embryo transplants is included in the documentation. Also, breeders weighing more than twice the first year can track the additional weights by transferring the information to a database program.

The system's boxed "selection windows" make it easy to enter correct information. Pop-up overlapping menus work with a mouse or with arrow keys.

"Anyone serious about maintaining excellent records on their cattle operation will find the cow/calf production system a real workhorse," said Warrington.

Red Wing Cow/Calf Production System, Version 5.0, operates on an IBM or compatible machine with a hard disk and at least 640K memory. The program is available for $695.

For more information, contact your local Red Wing dealer or Patricia Brown, Red Wing Business Systems, 610 Main Street, Red Wing, MN 55066, (800) 732-9464.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $124 Million in Extra Payments

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past five years, we returned more than $124 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $35,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Judge Names Winners At Dixie National ROV Show

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Dean Janssen, Peoria, Illinois, judged the 95 head of Angus bulls and females that competed for top honors at the 1993 Dixie National Roll of Victory (ROV) Angus Show in Jackson, Mississippi.

In the heifer show, the grand champion was Whitestone Carley, the junior heifer calf winner. The June 1992 heifer is sired by Da Es Ro Casey 629 and is jointly owned by Whitestone Farm, Kamaro Angus, and TMG Inc., all of Aldie, Virginia.

The reserve grand champion heifer was Waldeck Queen 9123 owned by David Ragsdale, Prospect, Kentucky, and C & F Angus Farm, Hiseville, Kentucky. The March 1991 heifer is sired by R&J Maxima and first won the junior division.

In the bull show, B&M Roper 091 won grand honors after topping the junior division. The February 1991 son of Leachman Prompter first won the junior championship and is owned by Buckner and Jeffries, Canmer, Kentucky; Forsythe Cattle Company, Marshall, Illinois; and G N and N S A Werthein of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Jacs Lombardi 1335 won reserve grand champion bull laurels for JAC's Ranch, Bentonville, Arkansas. The reserve grand winner first topped the senior bull calf division and is an October 1991 son of R&J Extraordinary 1345.

Ciba Division Restructures Management Team

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Ciba Plant Protection, a division of Ciba-Geigy Corporation, has restructured its top management team to include the heads of its primary business units — weed control, insect control, disease control — and sales functions.
In addition, the company's new and emerging businesses, turf and ornamental and seed treatment, will be directed by members of the top team.
Division President Emilio J. (Leo) Bontempo said, "The new structure will help us focus on our business goals and direct our activities to achieve these goals."

Bontempo said that as Ciba diversifies into more markets and adds more products to its product line, decision-making, responsibility, and leadership need to be at the proper management level in the company.

Ciba's new and emerging business functions will become part of a new group called commercial development. Businesses in this group are turf and ornamental, seed treatment, and international (formerly export).

A new functional group named sales will include the activities of the present sales and distribution departments plus other customer-oriented activities. The distribution area will continue to be a vital link to customers in providing the best service in the industry. The new sales group includes most of the former marketing functions.

agency that has provided instrumental support to ASA's overseas activities.

"We intend to work with the administration to help develop a sound plan that does as little harm

The new leadership team will continue to be headed by Bontempo, and organized as follows: sales — Ray Traen, vice president; production — Harold Dutreix, Vice President; research and development — Haney Camp, Vice President; planning/information/control — Jan Rowe, vice president; commercial development — Ken Kemp, vice president; disease control — Bruce Yergler, vice president; insect control — John W. Barnett, vice president; and weed control — Gene Leed, vice president.

Bontempo said that the specific organization of each group is targeted to be complete by mid-February.

"This change is part of our growth and preparation for the future. We will continue to change, to grow, not only as our businesses grow, but also as we continue to pursue our vision — to be the best in the agricultural industry," said Bontempo.

Soybean Farmers Support Budget Plan

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — U.S. soybean farmers support the basic direction of President Clinton's deficit reduction plan, but are concerned by several of the administration's proposals for reducing agricultural program costs and raising fees.

"We certainly support the administration's goal to reduce the federal deficit through a program that relies at least as much on spending cuts as it does on tax increases, and soybean farmers are willing to shoulder their part of the burden," said American Soybean Association (ASA) first vice president and South Dakota soybean farmer Larry Diedrich. "But our initial assessment of the plan is that agriculture is once again being asked by Washington to pay more than its fair share."

Of the $150 billion in spending cuts and fees proposed in non-defense programs during FY94-97, about 5.4 percent are in USDA-administered programs — more than double agriculture's share of the federal budget outside of food stamps and nutrition programs.

Another concern is the proposal to raise $900 million by increasing assessments in the 1995 Farm Bill on nonprogram crops, including a 66 percent increase in the 2-percent loan origination fee for soybeans (from 10 cents to 17 cents per bushel).

"The loan origination fee has undercut the traditional role of the non-recourse loan as a cash-flow tool by raising the effective interest rate on short-term loans to above commercial levels," Diedrich said. "ASA is strongly opposed to the origination fee, and will certainly oppose increasing it."

ASA is also concerned by the proposed reduction of $246 million in development-oriented foreign food aid and $35 million in funding for the Foreign Agriculture Service. According to Diedrich, food assistance programs are as important market for U.S. soybean farmers and FAS is an effective and efficient government

Producers Create Scholarship

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers recently created a new annual scholarship to provide financial assistance to Penn State students enrolled in the College of Agricultural Sciences. To qualify for the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Scholarship, students must have achieved superior academic records or show promise of outstanding acaademic success as a student. First preference will be given to students enrolled in the dairy and animal science major and whose families are members of the cooperative.

The number of scholarships awarded and the amount of each will be determined by the selection committee and the size of the cooperative's annual contribution. The minimum amount for the annual gift is $1,000. Interested persons or organizations can make additional contributions. For more information on scholarships available to students in Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science, contact William R. Henning (814) 863-3670.

Over 50 Years Of Service We U.P.S. Daily

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that:

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

Planter-Applied Fertilizer?
What's New in Fertilizer Technology Is Old Hat For Us!

For over 44 years NA-CHURS Liquid Fertilizer has made a difference at planting time... A difference you can see... Better Yields! ...Outstanding crops!

NA-CHURS Liquid Fertilizer is a N-P-K true solution. Low salt index. Near neutral pH. This allows placement close to the seed for an outstanding planter-applied program.

From start to finish NA-CHURS Distributors are there for you. Soil and tissue testing, agronomic recommendations, and the assurance that you're dealing with the liquid fertilizer leader.

Call your distributor today and find what we've known for years.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Berks County Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of roof runoff management (spouting) and concrete curbing to control barnyard runoff, to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. Construction of this project is expected to begin April 5, 1993. The site is in Tulpehocken Township, Berks County

Prospective contractors will receive a bid package, which contains Instructions to Bidders, a Sample Contract Form, The Plans and Specifications for the Project, and a Bid Sheet

Small and minority businesses and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

The site showing date is scheduled for March 4, 1993, at 10:30 AM at the site.

Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening at the Bethel Community Center, located in Bethel Township, Berks County, on March 18, 1993, at 10:30 AM

KELDERMAN AIR RIDE

Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leaves to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy, and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

EBY AGRI-DUMP BODIES

Rugged...built like a heavy dump truck

Eby Aluminum Agri-Dump Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:

- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' for grain bodies and 10 1/2' for general purpose dump bodies. A long list of standard features such as tarp rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and grain chute.

When you select your next grain body or general purpose dump body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.

FEATURES/BENEFITS

- Up to 40% lighter than steel, for greater payload
- Designed for long life
- Corrosion resistant, never needs painting
- Appearance to complement any truck
- Complete list of popular options, including tailgates, tarps and sides

Committed to the Agri Transportation Business

Golden's #1 wants your truck business... and we're ready to work hard to prove it!

Reputation: We may be Reading's newest Chevrolet dealer, but we bring over half a century of experience and a reputation of providing the best in Pennsylvania's transportation services. Now truck owners can get that same dependability and reliability!

Working Trucks: We keep your work trucks working by offering Saturday service from 8am-4 pm. Now you can have your fleet maintained while your company rests-you'll save big with little or no downtime.

Fleet Pricing: You don't have to order 10 or more trucks to get fleet pricing at Golden's #1. In fact, if you're buying the truck for your company, even if it's only 1, you'll get fleet pricing that will save you $$$$$. Let us bid on your next vehicle and we'll prove it!

Trained Truck Specialists: If you buy a work truck from a car salesperson, you might end up with the wrong truck. Our truck specialists are trained to make sure the truck you buy will do the job you need done - no more, and certainly no less...

For all your truck needs, call Bob Seitzinger, our commercial truck manager, today at (215) 374-8600. We're looking forward to hearing from you!

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

● CHORE-TIME® ULTRAFLO®

THE FEEDER THAT HAS TAKEN OVER THE CAGED LAYER INDUSTRY

Chore-Time's new and exciting auger system is so fast it fills all troughs in a 500-ft. house in only 5 minutes — then all birds eat simultaneously. No picking over of feed. It's the ultimate breeder feeder!

• Fast feed delivery—less competition, less stress, better performance, less picking over of feed. • Easy to operate, no feed level adjustment is ever needed. • Uniform ration throughout the house—uniform birds. • Available with hens-only or "all-birds" grill. • Use Chore-Time WEIGH-MATIC® bin to allocate daily ration before feeding.

Clockwise from above: auger acts as a grid so birds won't take and throw feed. Hens only model prevents males from eating up to 4 1/2 HP ea 1/2 power units per loop for houses. 600 are used in a house to 2 1/2 HP per 600 house. Diagram shows model for separate male feeding control unit.

JAY-DEE NEST SYSTEM WITH AUTOMATIC
EGG GATHERING

- Gently sloped laying screen provides a comfortable nest for the hens while allowing eggs to roll safely from the nest
- The wide 8" belt provides ample carrying capacity for eggs.

- The air close-out slowly pushes the hens from the nest each night
- An electric timeclock lets you set the time that roosting birds are pushed from the nest

MARYLAND DHIA

January, 1993

The January 1993 DHI information for Maryland dairy herds is listed by herd name, county association, total number of cows in the herd, and the average production per cow on a 3.5% Fat Corrected Milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. The herd must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 65 lbs. or more of 3.5% FCM per cow per day. All of the herds are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys and Jerseys, and the top eight herds for Ayrshires.

Zinpro Introduces Dairy Mineral Program

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Zinpro Corporation has introduced 4-PLEX, an organic trace mineral program designed to maximize milk production and milk quality in high-producing, intensively managed dairy herds.

The program provides four of Zinpro's individually researched and manufactured products — ZINPRO® zinc methionine, CuPLEX® copper lysine, COPRO® cobalt glucoheptonate and MANPRO® manganese methionine.

"This is the first time that any manufacturer has combined these four products in this manner," said to Zinpro Corporation's president, Michael Anderson.

With 4-PLEX, dairy producers feed four of the most nutritionally significant trace minerals in a convenient feeding program. University and commercial research demonstrates that feeding the trace minerals in 4-PLEX improves milk production and quality, aids in combating hoof and leg problems, and enhances reproductive performance.

"Dairy producers are pushing to reach the genetic potential available from selecting better bulls. They're also putting more nutritional stress on their cows through the use of total mixed rations (TMRs) and more physical stress on them due to both production requirements and the demands of housing design. In these challenged herds, the need for trace minerals is even greater," said Dr. Bruce Johnson, Zinpro's director of nutritional services.

"Feeding 4-PLEX is the next logical step in nutrition for dairy producers, including those now benefiting from feeding ZINPRO zinc methionine. It's the next step in advancing a herd's milk production and reproductive performance," Johnson said. "4-PLEX conveniently fits feeding programs for all milking strings, dry cows and replacement heifers."

The 4-PLEX program differs from other trace mineral packages because the four Zinpro products included are individually researched and manufactured before blending. The defined chemical structure of each trace mineral complex guarantees that 4-PLEX is always the same product.

In addition, the patented structure of these four Zinpro trace mineral products makes them more bioavailable to the animal than other trace mineral sources. "As a result, they are better absorbed and utilized by the animal," said Johnson.

ZINPRO, MANPRO, and CuPLEX demonstrate rumen bypass capability, while COPRO is designed to be used by rumen bacteria.

"With 4-PLEX, we are now offering an organic trace mineral 'program' vs. single products," said Joe Carrica, Zinpro's national accounts/technical services manager. "This offers dairy producers a more convenient way of guaranteeing that dairy cattle receive optimum amounts of these four critical trace minerals."

For more information on 4-PLEX, producers should contact their feed manufacturer or nutritionist.

Chemsweep Under Way In Lackawanna, Wyoming Counties

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Chemsweep — a pesticide disposal program for producers of farm, greenhouse, Christmas tree, and nursery crops — is under way until March 31 in Lackawanna and Wyoming counties.

Forms and information are available at those county cooperative extension offices for producers who have unwanted pesticides for disposal at no cost to them. The forms listing the unwanted pesticides must be completed by the producer and returned to the regional office of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture by March 31. After that date, producers submitting completed forms will be notified of the disposal procedure.

Producers should not remove the pesticides from their present location but they must complete the disposal program form and get it to the regional office by March 31.

This is a pilot program financed from pesticide manufacturers' fees and there are no provisions to extend the deadline beyond March 31 or repeat the program in the future in Lackawanna and Wyoming counties.

The program does not include pesticides labeled for home owner use but does include farm or producer pesticides whether or not crops are currently being grown.

Further information and disposal forms are available from the Lackawanna County Cooperative Extension, 200 Adams Avenue, Scranton, PA 18503; Wyoming County Cooperative Extension, Courthouse, Tunkhannock, PA 18657; or the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Route 92 South, Tunkhannock, PA 18657.

ICI Agricultural Products Changes Name

WILMINGTON, Del. — ICI Agricultural Products, whose products include Eradican, Fusilade 2000, and Gramoxone Extra herbicides and Dyfonate, Force, and Karate insecticides, has changed its name to Zeneca Ag Products.

The change reflects an internal division of ICI Americas Inc. into two separate organizations, according to Bob Woods, president of Zeneca Ag Products. The in-house restructuring took effect January 1, 1993.

Zeneca Inc. is comprised of the former ICI ag products, seeds, pharmaceuticals, and specialty businesses. The remaining businesses — materials, explosives, paints and industrial chemicals — will retain the name ICI Americas Inc. In addition, the seeds group will continue to operate under the name ICI Seeds, although it is a part of Zeneca.

"Zeneca brings together ICI's bioscience, research-driven businesses," Woods said. "This will allow us to bring together those resources for even greater customer focus."

Each company has its own management and executive teams. Zeneca Inc. and ICI Americas Inc. are wholly owned subsidiaries of Imperial Chemical Industries PLC.

"Last July, ICI announced that it was considering proposals for a demerger of its bioscience businesses into a separate company," Woods said. "No decision has been made on the demerger. However, the restructuring that has taken place since then will put ICI into a position to make a decision on the demerger proposals after publication of the ICI annual results in February 1993."

This reorganization is effective worldwide, and the Zeneca name is being used throughout the world to represent ICI's bioscience businesses.

Woods said there will be no changes in Zeneca Ag Products management, personnel, programs, or customer relationships as a result of the restructuring.

He said the company remains

committed to the agricultural crop protection and seeds markets.

"In fact, we expect the sharper focus on bioscience to be a very healthy thing for our agricultural businesses," he said. "The strength of the businesses in Zeneca and the synergy in the way we operate are exciting. We have a clear vision for the company. For us, this is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to participate in a new beginning."

Woods said Zeneca would "aim to meet the needs of customers and consumers through the innovative and responsible use of organic chemistry and biological science."

Other key elements of the company's purpose, he said, are to operate safely and in harmony with the environment and to practice high standards of ethics, quality, and service.

The name Zeneca, derived from, "zenith," the highest point or state, indicates the company's aspirations to be in the front rank of successful, science-based companies in its chosen business sectors, according to Woods.

The new name (pronounced zeh-neh-ka) will be phased in over a period of time. "Customers will continue to see the ICI name on packaging, advertisements, product labels, and signs during most of 1993," he said.

In North America, Zeneca is a $2.7 billion bioscience company with 8,400 employees and 53 manufacturing, research, and technology sites.

Tractor Winners From Corn Days Announced

YORK (York Co.) — York Farm Credit, ACA and three area farm implement dealers are announcing the winners of county extension Corn Day drawings.

David Waybright of Gettysburg was the big winner at The Adams County Corn Day, held Monday, January 25, at the York Springs Firehall. Waybright won one week's free use of a new Case IH Maxxum Tractor sponsored by York Farm Credit, ACA and M.J. Sheffer, Inc. of Hanover. Harold Smith of M.J. Sheffer, Inc. will coordinate a week this spring with Waybright to deliver the tractor for use on his farm.

B. Guy Smith of Littlestown won the $75 gift certificate for

New Oxford Agway, sponsored by York Farm Credit, ACA.

Mervin Hertzler of Seven Valleys was the tractor winner at the York County Corn Clinic, held Wednesday, January 27, at the York County 4-H Center. Hertzler won one week's free use of a new John Deere 6000 Series Tractor sponsored by York Farm Credit, ACA and Waltemyer's Sales and Service of Red Lion. Jim Waltemyer of Waltemyer's Sales and Service will coordinate a week this spring with Hertzler to deliver the tractor for use on his York County farm.

Dale C. Bowers of East Berlin won the $75 gift certificate for Tractor Supply Company, sponsored by York Farm Credit, ACA.

Glenn Myers of Newburg was the big winner of the Cumberland County Corn Day, held Thursday, January 28, at the Penn Township Firehall in Hantsdale. Myers won three day's free use of a new Ford Powerstar Series Tractor sponsored by York Farm Credit, ACA and R & W Equipment Company of Carlisle.

Tom Wivell of R & W Equipment Company will coordinate three days this spring with Myers to deliver the tractor for use on his farm in northern Cumberland County.

Tom Williams of Boiling Springs won the $75 gift certificate.

More than seed...

"The W-L I planted two years ago is giving me better yields and higher protein than any previous crop. I had a public variety in this field last time and I had to take it out in the third year. This W-L alfalfa is sure to go a full four."

For more than 25 years, W-L alfalfas have been bred, tested and produced to give high yields, leafy, fine-stemmed forage with long stand persistence and multiple pest and disease resistance. For the best return on your investment, you can't afford less than W-L.

Solutions.

cates for Tractor Supply Company, sponsored by York Farm Credit, ACA.

"We like the idea of teaming up with local machinery dealers to sponsor prizes that can really help some farmers," said John Mattillo of York Farm Credit, ACA. "The response to these drawings has been great and these drawings reinforce the fact that local ag businesses are committed to serving the needs of area farmers."

"The Adams, York, and Cumberland County extension directors and staff did a great job of organizing these meetings, and each had full house attendance. We hope to continue these drawings in the future to compliment the excellent content of these meetings," he said.

Farmer Receives Award For Top Sorghum Yield

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Richard Schmaltz of Doylestown, Pa. won a state firstplace award in the National Grain Sorghum Producers (NGSP) yield and management contest, non-irrigated division.

He was honored by Dekalb Plant Genetics at a reception during the NGSP convention in St. Louis. Schmaltz won the award with a Dekalb sorghum hybrid. He also will receive special recognition from the NGSP.

Schmaltz planted DK48 seed, which produced 112.75 bushels per acre. This yield ranked him among Dekalb's 22 national and state first place winners. He planted his crop on May 27, 1992 in 14-inch rows. He harvested the crop on Nov. 9.

To qualify for the award, contestants were scored against the five-year average established for his county by the Crop Reporting Service. Winners are those producers whose yields were highest in relation to the county average.

Schmaltz, who has been farming for 39 years, grows 625 acres of sorghum, corn, wheat and soybeans.

Dekalb sorghum hybrids won national first and second place awards in the irrigated division and a national third place in the non-irrigated division. In state results, Dekalb hybrids won 22 of 38 yield and management contests, more than double the winners of any other seed company and more than all other companies combined.

Jones Manufacturing was the first with a hydraulic-opening tub, the first with an electronic governor and the first with a Hydra-fork. From the single 14" discharge auger, to the rubber lagged, top-drive elevator with our exclusive Jones-Ridge Belt, no other grinder in the world has the features, capacity, and durability of the Jones Mighty Giant.

With several of our first units manufactured in the early 1960's still in use today, there's no question Jones Manufacturing's Mighty Giant is the best value for your money, and the only grinder for your operation!

Mighty
GIANT Tub Grinders:

- ✓ Highest available production capacity
- ✓ Low maintenance costs
- ✓ Most efficient size for portable and stationary use
- ✓ Self-contained, portable hydrafork and PTO models also available

D.M.I. TILLAGE SYSTEMS

Soil Compaction IS a PROBLEM on every farm we've checked...

DMI Subsoil Tillage Systems help eliminate soil compaction - making your fields produce more crops.

- 1) Breaking up the compaction layer decreases soil runoff in wet years, by permitting water to percolate into the subsoil.
- 2) Breaking up the compaction layer makes room for plant root systems to seek and find moisture in dry years.

THE "ROCK-FLEX" STORY

"Rock-Flex" arms are C-shaped to flex over obstacles - helping protect disc blades and spools from breakage. "Super Seal" re-greasable bearings are encased in rubber to absorb shock.

RONOVOST

ROUND BALE TUBER

Round silage bale tubing-machine. Adjusts easily to the diameter and shape of the bales. Uses stretchable and recyclable plastic tubes. Self-operating: fully integrated hydraulic system driven by an auxiliary 9 HP gas engine. Self-propelling. Automatic ram pushes the bales into the tube: 16 to 18 sec. cycle time. Can be operated on various ground conditions. Field-tested performance of 100 bales per hour. Two models available: for bales of 48" to 58" and 48" to 68" diameter. Rear wheels are hydraulically adjustable for easy relocation. Integrated oil reservoir.

COST PER BALE AS LITTLE AS $2.50

NEW 6000 SERIES TRACTORS... NEW 600 SERIES LOADERS... GREAT NEWS

Your hydraulic power needs vary from one loader job to the next. So we built a new hydraulic system for new 6000 Series Tractors that varies pressure and flow to match your demand. If you need a big flow of oil, you'll get it... the 16 gpm main pump provides maximum pressure up to 2900 psi. You get exactly the response you need, fed to the fastest cycling, most productive new loaders we've ever built.

Come see us for more details.

THE CLAAS HARVESTER

RELIABILITY

The CLAAS Cutterbox is a unique balanced design using 2 knives in a V configuration. This forces the cutting action toward the center instead of the outside. This is the secret of their low horsepower requirement and good quality of cut.

MAXIMUM FEED QUALITY

To ensure maximum feed quality from maize it is vital to crack every kernel. Digestion of uncracked maize falls as the maize becomes drier. Independent trials have shown the Claas corn cracker to be close to 100% effective. From the cylinder the corn passes through the two large diameter rollers with saw tooth profiles. The rollers run at different speeds to intensify the grinding effect and open up each kernel. It is a fairly tough process so the latest generation of corn crackers take account of the wear involved on the rollers. Nothing can reduce the wear but Claas have cut the cost of repair by making the outer sleeve replaceable. The shaft, drive pulley and bearings can all be reused which cuts down repair bills dramatically. Adjusting the distance between the two rollers is accomplished by turning two handles, easily accessible behind the cab. In no time at all the degree of cracking can be matched to the ripeness of the crop.

If Your Silo Needs

Try Our Poly
Silo Liners

THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER:
• Spoilage is reduced around doors.
• Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
• Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.

• Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
• Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
• Quick installation.
• Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.
